ASSURES MEXICO NO HARM IS INTENDED

Ambassador La Barra Calls at White House and President Tells Him Army is Not to Invade His Soil.

REPORTS THAT DIAZ IS DEAD UNTRUE

Washington, March 9.—President Taft today assured Mr. De La Barra, the Mexican ambassador to the United States, that the statement issued in Mexico last night through the American embassy accurately represented the attitude of this government in sending the 20,000 troops into Texas. He told Mr. De La Barra that the troops were there for maneuvers and that there was nothing in the movement that should excite alarm or unusual interest.

The Mexican ambassador reached Washington from New York this morning. He called at the white house at noon and remained there for nearly an hour. Mr. De La Barra said that Jose Yves Limantour, the Mexican minister of finance, would not be able to see President Taft because of the latter's departure from the city this afternoon.

La Barra's Statement.

After his interview with the president today Ambassador De La Barra said:

"The president was very cordial. I talked with him for some time with regard to the assembling of troops on our frontier and he assured me that the statement made to my government and published in Mexico City yesterday was the sincere position of the United States. That was quite satisfactory.

"There is no apprehension on the part of the Mexican government as to the object of the United States in mobilizing so many troops on our border. I am able to say this without qualification.

"In Mexico the administration is firm and is able to take care of the insurrection. It has been able to do so from the beginning. The reports that President Diaz is ill are erroneous."

PRESIDENT DIAZ NOT DEAD.

New York, March 9.—In view of renewed reports concerning the health of President Diaz is can be stated that a dispatch from the Associated Press correspondent at Mexico City received last night said that he personally had been the president the previous night, when he was in apparent good health. Another dispatch received from Mexico City last night referred to President Diaz receiving Admiral Lajarte at 5 p. m., and later conferring at his town mansion with the governor of Guanajuato. No further advices have been received.

MOVEMENT GOES SMOOTHLY.

Washington, March 9.—Still under the guise of peaceful maneuvers, the advance of the army toward the southern frontier of the United States is proceeding in perfect order.

Innumerable telegrams are being received by Gen. Leonard Wood, chief of staff, reporting that his sudden and comprehensive orders, flashed from the capital only three days ago, are being carried out with rapidity and precision.

The staff officers, having set the machinery in motion, are enjoying a respite today.

The telegraphic advices indicate that all of the men ordered out are now moving rapidly southward with ample commissary and ammunition supplies.

Capt. Johnson Hagood, of the coast artillery and member of the general staff, has been ordered to San Antonio, Texas, to join the staff of Maj. Gen. Carter, commander of the army division which is being concentrated at that point. Capt. Hagood's departure will be delayed a few days in order that he may clear up several odds and ends of military matters—the aftermath of legislation—by the last session of congress. He is the legislative expert of the general staff.

No Hitch in Navy's Movements.

The navy, like the other arm of the fighting establishment, is carrying out its part of the operations without any semblance of a hitch. The vessels of the fifth division of the Atlantic fleet have been supplied with their complements and are prepared to sail for Guantanamo at the "drop of the hat" by the secretary of the navy.

The real purpose of the unprecedented movement of soldiers, sailors and marines is still enshrouded in a cloud of mystery.

Official Washington persists in the previous announcements that the movement is a technical military experiment to try the efficiency of the fighting resources of the nation and that it has no relation to the Mexican situation.

CRUISERS WAITED FOR TIDE.

New York, March 9.—A thick haze lay over New York bay hiding from view the three big armored cruisers which have been making hurried preparations to sail for the gulf of Mexico to participate in the joint naval and military maneuvers in Texas and Mexican border. Coaling of the war ships—the armored cruisers Tennessee, Montana and North Carolina—was completed last night and there were apparently no obstacles to the sailing of these units of the war fleet except the adverse atmospheric conditions and the low tide of the early morning hours. The ships were expected to up anchor and away at any moment.

The lower harbor, where Rear Admiral Staunton's trio of big cruisers were awaiting sailing orders was the one remaining seat of activity today in this vicinity in connection with the mobilization movement southward.

The detachment of marines ordered from here to join the force headed for Guantanamo left yesterday and last night 1,500 coast artillerymen from the harbor forts mustered into a provisional regiment for service in Texas, sailed for Fortress Monroe on the steamer Jamestown.

Army officers stationed here were congratulating themselves today on smoothness with which the work of getting men and supplies ready and hustling them off toward the scene of operations was accomplished in the face of difficulties incident to the collection and dispatch, fully equipped of a widely scattered force on such short notice.

CARRIES BALL CARTRIDGES.

Philadelphia, March 9.—Fully equipped for participation in the big military movement more than 700 marines sailed at 9 a. m. on the transport Prairie from the Philadelphia navy yard for Guantanamo, Cuba. The marines were rushed here from Washington, Annapolis, Brooklyn, Boston, Newport and New London, following the order for the mobilization of troops in Texas.

Besides general stores the Prairie is carrying south 365,000 rounds of ball cartridges.

The transport Dixie, ordered here from New York to take marines south, is being loaded with stores.

The Dixie will sail within a day or two.

ARTILLERY IS ON THE WAY.

Pensacola, Fla., March 9.—Three hundred soldiers, including the 15th and 20th artillery, the eighth artillery band and the hospital corps left for the Barancas this morning for Galveston. The men spent the greater part of the night making ready for their hurried trip. Their equipment included one car of ball cartridges and provisions for a week. Orders were issued for all officers and men of other companies stationed here and who are on furlough to report for duty immediately and get ready for quick departure.

CHEERED THE TROOPS.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 9.—Two troop trains of 44 cars carrying the third artillery and battery F, arrived in this city today on their way to San Antonio. They were cheered by thousands of commuters. They left Rosslyn, near Washington, last night and went to the southwest over the Panhandle railroad by way of St. Louis.

TROOPS EN ROUTE.

St. Louis, March 9.—Three trains of 48 cars carrying the 800 men of the Tenth infantry from Fort Benjamin Harrison passed through St. Louis today enroute to Texas.

LEAVE FORT LEAVENWORTH.

Leavenworth, Kas., March 9.—The Third battalion of engineers and the First battalion of the 13th infantry left Fort Leavenworth for San Antonio today. A long line of freight cars carried the big pontoon boats and other equipment of the engineers. This completes the movement of troops from Fort Leavenworth.

TARRANT SIGNS A CONTRACT.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 9.—Outfielder Frank Tarrant, who played in the Michigan trolley league last season, was signed by the Milwaukee club today. Outfielder Newt Randall has renewed his contract.

CONDITIONS IMPROVED.

But California Still is Suffering from Wrath of Storm.

San Francisco, March 9.—Storm conditions in California are somewhat improved today but railroad traffic is still far from normal. The coast line of the Southern Pacific is still tied up by washouts and through trains over that route may not move for another day or two.

The Shasta route to the north, it is expected, will be opened today. Overland trains from Ogden on the Central route, which have been stalled in the mountains will arrive this morning. The Western Pacific is still blocked by slides in the mountains. Flood conditions continue serious in some sections. Heavy rains are still falling in the southern end of the San Joaquin valley and around San Luis Obispo. The only fatality reported in connection with the flood waters were the drowning of two boys near Arroyo Grande.

QUITS LIFE BY HANGING

Jacob Schoedel Suicides in Barn on Carson Avenue.

DAUGHTER FINDS LIFELESS FORM

Former Brewery Employe Had Been Despondent and Acting Queerly.

Jacob Schoedel, 57 years of age, former employe of the Centlivre brewery, took his own life by hanging in a barn on the rear of his premises at 51 Carson avenue about 9:30 o'clock this morning. His lifeless form was discovered by a daughter half an hour later.

Since the death of his wife Schoedel had been despondent and had acted queerly at times, and to his mental derangement is attributed the suicide. Members of the family had noticed the extreme despondency of the father for some time and had sought to exercise a rather close watch upon his actions. He arose as usual this morning, however, ate his breakfast and later busied himself in chores about the place and the family did not notice anything that could have given a hint of the man's intention.

He was last seen alive at 9:30 o'clock. Schoedel had gone to the barn and adjusted a chain about one of the rafters. To this he tied a rope which he later placed about his neck and then stepped off a chair, death ensuing from strangulation. When the daughter discovered the body of her father hanging in the barn she quickly summoned assistance and the body was cut down, but effort to resuscitate the man were futile. Coroner Kesler was then summoned.

Since leaving his place at the brewery about one year ago, Schoedel had lived a retired life. He was well known and is survived by several grown children.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY WAS NOT REMOVED

Governor Dix Denies a Summary Part in Carnegie Trust Probe.

STATE IS INTERESTED

Albany, N. Y., March 9.—Governor Dix today denied a report that he has ordered District Attorney Whitman, of New York, to withdraw from the investigation of the affairs of the Carnegie Trust company and that the district attorney has been superseded by Attorney General Carmody.

Governor Dix said it was his understanding that District Attorney Whitman was coming to Albany to confer with Attorney General Carmody relative to the investigation.

Governor Dix said later that he had sent a note to Mr. Whitman asking him to confer with Attorney General Carmody on the civil side of the situation. This, it was stated at the executive chamber, is in line with the policy of the governor to have state officers consulted in everything in which they have a direct concern.

It was stated that of the state's deposits with the Carnegie Trust company $40,000 had been recovered and that there is still due the state between $150,000 and $160,000.

OLD DISPATCHER HERE.

W. H. Dolbear Had Not Seen Fort Wayne Since 1869.

W. H. Dolbear, who in 1869 was a train dispatcher on the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago railroad and located in this city, was in the city yesterday a guest at the Randall hotel and was taking his first glimpse of Fort Wayne since he left it forty-two years ago.

"I'm sorry the old Aveline house is gone," said Mr. Dolbear, "for it is about the only part of the city I seem to remember well." He is now connected with the Western Union Telegraph company in Chicago and succeeded in locating one or two old acquaintances in Fort Wayne.

FINAL SPEECH TOUR FOR HIM

Colonel Roosevelt Reaches Atlanta on Way to the Far West.

HIS LAST SWING ROUND CIRCLE

Makes Trip to Atlanta in Ordinary Sleeper Like Private Citizen.

Atlanta, Ga., March 9.—With his arrival in this city shortly before noon today, Theodore Roosevelt began what is declared to be his last extended speaking tour. The journey will carry him over seven thousand or more miles of railroad skirting the southern and northern borders of the country. His speaking dates are so arranged that he will deliver at least one address in each state through which he passes. When the present journey is finished there will be only one or two states in which he has not appeared since his retirement from the white house. Mr. Roosevelt made the journey from New York in an ordinary sleeping car which was well crowded.

Did Not Seek Privacy.

He occupied a drawing room compartment but made no effort to secure privacy unusual to patrons of sleeping cars. Several personal friends who were aboard the train visited with him at different times and the secretary of war, Mr. Dickinson, who boarded the train at Washington, spent much time in the Roosevelt drawing room.

Mr. Dickinson is to speak at the Southern Commercial congress, in session here, and he read his speech to Mr. Roosevelt during the journey. Its subject matter was discussed in a casual way, but the talk was purely a friendly chat, without significance. Mr. Roosevelt smilingly refused to discuss any of the public questions of the day.

Will Fix Saloon Quota as Soon as One is Obtained for Office.

NEWS OF THE COURTS

As soon as an official report of the last United States census is obtained for use in the county commissioners' court the saloon quota required under the new regulation law will be fixed.

Members of the board had practically agreed upon one saloon to every 500, but pressure is being brought to have this raised to one for every thousand.

All of the applicants for the month have obtained their licenses except Peter Gerber, of Leo. He was told the board would not be ready for several days and he will in all probability come in tomorrow.

Victor Nesca, who asked a license for a saloon in the rolling mill district, will probably make a contest. He has not formally been refused, but has engaged Attorney Guy Colerick to look after his interests.

DEATH OF DIAZ AND REVOLUTION FEARED

Truth as to Maneuvers Leaking and It Shows That Conditions in Mexico are Menace to Our Peace.

ANTI-AMERICAN FEELING IS STRONG

Washington, March 9.—The real significance of the sudden mobilization of a quarter of the United States army and formidable portion of the navy along the Mexican frontier and in the waters adjacent to the ends of the international boundary is gradually leaking out in Washington. From various sources, yet without the possibility of official verification, creditable admissions have been obtained which, pieced together in the light of known facts, make up a whole that goes far to substantiate the interpretation placed by the public upon the great movement of military forces now in progress.

Wilson Brought Disquieting News.

It is said that about the time of the return to Washington of Henry Lane Wilson, of Indiana, ambassador of the United States to Mexico, the administration received advices indicating increasing unrest in Mexico and that the revolution, notwithstanding assertions of the Mexican government to the contrary, had extended in many directions.

The whole country was said to be in a condition made more serious by what was said to be a precarious state of the health of President Diaz. There is known to be no little anti-American feeling among the Mexicans generally, and it was feared that developments at any moment might precipitate a chaotic condition with probable demonstrations against foreigners. This alleged state of affairs, it is said, was discussed with deep concern at the white house with the result that a suggestion was made that it would be the part of forethought to concentrate near the Mexican border a force sufficient to meet any situation which might arise.

Maneuvers Were Cloak for the Fact.

This movement was to take the form of maneuvers, and all parties to the plan sincerely hoped that nothing else would be necessary.

The interpretation which was instantly placed upon the move by the newspapers and people of the country is said to have disconcerted the administration and the president and his advisers hastened to relieve the tension of feeling in this country and in Mexico by emphatic declarations of the harmless intent of the movement.

Maneuvers it will be and maneuvers on American soil exclusively. Meanwhile accurate information as to the real condition of affairs in Mexico, especially as to the health of President Diaz, is awaited in Washington with intense interest and no little concern.

The Nations Discussed It.

The question of the safety of foreign interests in Mexico in view of the disturbed condition of affairs, has been the subject of a formal discussion by foreign nations with the government of the United States. This information was ascertained from official sources today, but it was understood that the discussions had been indefinite and did not reach the stage of representations. Officials of the state department were reticent as to what foreign countries had taken up the matter with this government and averred that none of the informal discussions assumed concrete proportions.

Fred M. Dearing, American charge at Mexico City, today telegraphed the state department that the Mexican government was much gratified at President Taft's communication assuring General Diaz that the maneuvers in the south should give no concern to the people of Mexico.

Mexican Government Knew Purpose.

Minister of Foreign Affairs Creel informed Mr. Dearing that the Mexican government had entertained no misgivings over the movement of the troops.

It is generally believed in Washington that the Mexican government was acquainted with the situation of the United States to concentrate troops along the frontier before the orders were issued by the war department. It is generally accepted that President Taft's communication to President Diaz will dissipate any fears which might have been entertained by the people of Mexico and it will serve as an emphatic assurance that the movement of troops is not a hostile demonstration against the republic to the south.

MINISTER LIMANTOUR TALKS.

New York, March 9.—Jose Yves Limantour, the Mexican minister of finance, conferred today on the Mexican situation with J. P. Morgan, Jr., D. E. Bennett, vice president of the National railways of Mexico, and several other financiers. It was said that Cecil Grenfell, a member of the British parliament was expected to join the conference.

Mr. Limantour during the progress of the conference said he had received from the department of foreign relations in Mexico City a copy of the telegram sent to President Diaz by President Taft. Commenting on this telegram Mr. Limantour said: "This communication from President Taft to President Diaz, will, I am sure, be reassuring to my government and should be to my people who, naturally, have been greatly discouraged by the sensational statements which have been made by the press. I greatly regret the tone of many of the comments made by the press upon the whole matter and also the number of false rumors which are daily printed about Mexico. It is impossible for me to understand why sensational developments should be expected with the two peoples whose relations are so well defined as those of Mexico and the United States are and who are living and for a long time have lived such good neighbors."

Mr. Limantour said that he had no special program for the day and could not say just when he would leave for Mexico. He added that when Ambassador de la Barra left for Washington at midnight last night it was with the expectation that he would have an interview with President Taft today.

FRANCE HAS ASKED NOTHING

Paris, March 9.—The officials of the foreign office today informed the Associated Press that the French government had made no representations to the United States regarding the protection of French interests in Mexico. News of the American action was received with extraordinary interest by the foreign office, where, in the absence of special advices from Washington on the supbject, it is assumed that the reasons for the step taken were wholly sufficient.

Local financial interests are somewhat concerned regarding events in Mexico, where, it is roughly estimated, this country has $100,000,000 invested.

The explanation of the latest development current on the bourse is that the United States government has in mind the ultimate possibility of being required to protect the immense American interests in Mexico, which might be imperilled in the event of the death of President Diaz by widespread disorders in that country.

CHANGE IN RURAL ROUTE.

Slight Deviation Will Improve Service on No. 2 Line.

Effective March 16 a change will be made in rural free delivery route No. 2, north of the city, which will obviate doubling over a part of the route, also served from Huntertown, and reach half a dozen or more families residing on the Pion road.

It is said that other slight changes are in contemplation on a number of the routes out of Fort Wayne with a view of improving the service and reaching additional people.

TO ASK INCREASE IN POLICE FORCE

Merchants' Committee Will Meet Mayor and Board of Public Safety.

NEED 20 PATROLMEN

A commitee composed of Adam Rinehart, chairman, C. M. Mills and Lawrence Heiny, from the Fort Wayne Retail Merchants' association, will meet the mayor, chief of police and the board of public safety Friday night to discuss the matter of increasing the police force. This matter was brought before the merchants' association last Monday night by Mr. Rinehart with the result that the committee was appointed. NOTES OF CITY HALL

Engineer Frank M. Randall will have ready for submission to the board of public works at its session tonight plans for paving Calhoun street from Baker to its junction with the pavement under the Pennsylvania and Wabash tracks, Clay street from Columbia to Washington boulevard, Clinton street from Murray to Pontiac, Spy Run avenue from St. Mary's river to the feeder canal, Park avenue from Thompson avenue to Broadway, Schick street from Maumee avenue to Wayne street, John street from Creighton avenue to Pontiac street, and Runnion avenue from Main to High street.

This will mark the campaign of street paving for the summer. There are a number of other plans that have been ordered, but the engineer has not had time to complete all. North Clinton street will probably not be paved.

Marlotte Price, assistant city engineer, is preparing plans for the new hay market on the city property abutting on Clinton street and these will include an office for the weighmaster, a waiting room for farmers who have hay to offer and all of the improvements that are necessary for their comfort and convenience. The location is a good one and the facilities better than have been afforded on North Calhoun street.

City Hall Notes.

The board will hear remonstrances tonight against the opening of Prospect avenue.

The question of opening South Hanna street will also be up, but will be postponed as non-resident owners are to be notified.

There is a probability that a remonstrance will be filed against the paving of Clay street a sa number of the property owners are opposed to the improvement.

TRAMPS LINE UP FOR INSPECTION

None Identified as Man Who Annoyed Woman on Main Street.

GORDON IS FINED

Seventeen tramps picked up by the police in the last two days were lined up at police headquarters today for inspection by several women living on West Main street who have been greatly annoyed by a seedy looking individual who has thus far evaded capture.

None of the men in the roundup were recognized and all but three of them were ordered out of the city. The fellow the police want to get hold of is still at large and all of the bums that the officers find on the streets are being sent in.

For several days the influx of tramps has been greater than at any time since the last roundup and unless the fraternity gives the city a wide berth the judge will resort to the old custom of giving all that fall into the police net from fifteen to twenty-five days on the county stone pile.

Gordon Sent Over.

Steve Gordon entered a plea of guilty to the charge of stealing a log chain from Charles Hilker and drew $5 and costs and ten days. He is a painter and has lived all his life in Fort Wayne and attributed the theft of the chains to the desire for strong drink.

LOCAL OFFICERS GET NO SUMMONS

Militia Heads Not Yet Invited to Participate in War Game.

MAY GET A CHANCE

Despite the announcement from Washington Wednesday night that militia officers of all the states were to be invited to participate in the mysterious maneuvers of the army now being mobilized along the Mexican border, no word to either Capt. Clyde Driesbach, of company D, or Capt. Harry Clark, of battery B, had reached Fort Wayne up to a late hour this afternoon.

While they are without information more detailed than that contained in the newspaper dispatches, local officers of the Indiana National Guard say that in the light of the news from Washington they fully expect the ranking officers to be invited to join the mobilization movement. Capt. Driesbach, of company D, was not in the city today.

Capt. Ivers W. Leonard, until recently at Concordia, is with his company on its way southward.

FRANCE'S MONOPOLY ON SMOKE.

Revenues Derived From Tobacco Are the Solid Asset of the Government.

(Consular Report.)

On December 29, 1810, a decree issued by the Emperor Napoleon Bonaparte created the Tobacco Regie and reserved to the national government a monopoly of the importation, manufacture and sale of tobacco in all its forms.

From 1811 to 1814 the revenue from the regie averaged $12,159,000 a year. The receipts of 1909 were $94,003,429. The statistics for 1910 are not yet available.

How much of the gross receipts of the regie are net profits—the excess over the cost of raw material, manufacture and maintenance—is not made public, but it is authoratively stated that the aggregate net profits derived by the French government from the tobacco monopoly during one hundred years, 1811 to 1910, amount to $2,929,596,000.

Add to this the annual profit of $7,387,200 derived from the monopoly of the manufacture and sale of matches and it becomes evident that the revenues which are derived literally from smoke are among the solid and reliable assets of the French government.

GETTING THE RESCUE HABIT.

(Philadelphia Times.)

Elsie Radford, the young man who rescued a small boy skater who had fallen through the ice in a deep pond, has again appeared in the role of rescuer. Thirteen-year-old Margaret Weston was dared to cross the thin ice to a little island that poked its head up through the ice about one hundred feet from shore. Margaret wouldn't take a dare, and in a few minutes she had crawled stealthily over to the island, and then started back. Almost at the first step the ice began to crackle under her, she lost her courage and retreated to the island, where she sat down to wait.

Radford saw her predicament, and, putting on a pair of hip boots, went to the rescue. He waded in and made his way through the broken ice and water to the island; hoisting the maid to his shoulder, he waded back again, waist deep, and carried her to dry land.

C. Q. D. BINNS IS PLAINTIFF.

Moving Picture Rights of the Sinking Republic Rouse a Dispute.

(New York Evening Post.)

"Jack" Binns, wireless operator, who leaped into fame by sending the "C. Q. D." call that brought succor to the rammed steamship Republic, appeared in the supreme court the other day to press his suit for $25,000 damages against the American Vitagraph company. An appeal after the first trial resulted in an order for a new hearing.

The company, Binns charges, displayed moving pictures purporting to represent scenes connected with the "C. Q. D." signalling from the wireless room of the republic after the collision with the Florida. He demands an injunction against further use of the pictures and asks that the court direct the company to turn over to him the films used. A feature of the trial will be the introduction of a moving picture machine in court. From this the pictures will be thrown upon a screen.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

DRIVEN INSANE BY WIFE'S DEATH

Husband Becomes Violent After Death of Wife—Son at Point of Death.

Portland, Ind., March 9.—Orlando Shauver, residing east of Bluffpoint, in Pike township, whose wife died Sunday evening, is said to be dangerously insane. Arrangements were made late Wednesday afternoon to hold an insanity inquest over him and Justice of the Peace A. G. Lewis, in whose court the proceedings will be conducted, together with the attending physician, drove to the Shauver home that evening.

Shauver has lost complete control of his mental faculties since the death of Mrs. Shauver and her burial Tuesday afternoon. At times it is said that it requires the combined strength of two and three men to restrain him in his violent actions. His son, Russell Shauver, seventeen years old, is lying at the point of death, suffering from pneumonia and his condition is made much worse owing to the excitement occasioned by his father's insane actions.

Friends and relatives of the grief-stricken and unfortunate family are at the home looking after and caring for the children, one of whom is but four weeks old. It is believed that it will be necessary to confine the demented man in the insane department at the county jail unless there is a change in his condition soon.

Shauver has a brother in the Easthaven asylum at Richmond now, he having been a patient there for the past four or five years.

FOOT AMPUTATED.

Huntington, Ind., March 9.—John Brown, a resident of Clear Creek township, and who lost a foot by amputation a week ago last Wednesday, is recovering slowly, but favorably from the illness that required his removal to the hospital in Fort Wayne. The foot was so badly infected with gangrene that it was necessary to take it off three inches above the ankle. The wound is now healing and indications point toward a more speedy recovery and a cure of the gangrene trouble.

DIES SUDDENLY.

Township Assessor Suddenly Stricken While at Breakfast.

Bluffton, Ind., March 9.—Township Assessor S. C. Moffett, known to his many friends and acquaintances in this city as "Uncle Sam," died suddenly yesterday morning at the office of Dr. I. N. Hatfield on South Johnson street. Mr. Moffett was taken ill while at the Thorp restaurant at breakfast. Dr. Hatfield was summoned and worked with him until he revived sufficiently to be taken to the doctor's office, where he was made comfortable. After reaching the office he grew rapidly worse and passed away at about 7:45 o'clock.

He was entirely conscious until the last and conversed with the men who carried him from the restaurant to the doctor's office. He stated that he had felt ill all night and was chilling when he arose to go to breakfast. When he arrived at the doctor's office he seemed to realize that his condition was extremely serious and he asked that someone secure an automobile and take him to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Gilbert, south of Mt. Zion. Those at his bedside promised to carry out his wish as soon as he gained a little strength. After expressing himself he sank rapidly and died in a very few minutes.

Mr. Moffett had made his home alone in this city for some time, having a room in the Morrow block. He was invited often to make his home with his various children, but he preferred to remain in Bluffton, where he was self-supporting through his office. He was esteemed by all who knew him.

MONEY FOR CREAMERY.

Nearly Required Amount Subscribed for Roanoke Plant.

Huntington, Ind., March 9.—Five thousand dollars to date has been subscribed for the erection of a big creamery at Roanoke, in which Richard Bros., Smith Young, W. H. Brinker and other substantial citizens of that town and vicinity are interested. The required amount is $6,000. The Toledo Supply company will install the machinery, which will be of the latest and most modern type. A location in the Young's addition, along the traction line at Roanoke has been secured for the new industry. This announcement was made today by Richard Bros. The company will be operated on a co-operative plan, each stockholder to have a voice in the governing of affairs.

The creamery will be housed in a fine brick building 50x60 feet. That the project will be a success is indicated by the fact that practically three-fourts of the required amount in a district ideal for the location of has been raised. Roanoke is situated a creamery.

MUSICAL CONTEST.

Winona Conservatory of Music Holds Successful Contest.

Warsaw, Ind., March 9.—The annual musical contest held Tuesday evening in the Westminster chapel at Winona Lake was a complete success. It was under the auspices of the Winona Conservatory of Music and certainly reflects great credit on this institution. The work presented Tuesday evening is sufficient evidence of the progressive spirit of the Winona Conservatory and of the thorough and high class work being done in this school of music. The success of this musical event must be attributed to Prof. H. W. Owens, director of the Winona Conservatory, and his efficient corps of instructors.

The competitors were greeted by a large and enthusiastic audience. Many Warsaw people were in attendance.

All of the competitors acquitted themselves in a highly creditable manner, several of the successful ones being Warsaw people.

NEW REPAIR SHOP.

Auto Company Warned by Kokomo's Recent Disaster.

Auburn, Ind., March 9.—Work has been started upon a new building for the Auburn Automobile company—a new repair shop, separate and apart from the other buildings. It is to be a one-story wooden structure 50x100 feet with self-supporting roof and cement floor. It is located at the east side of the lot, as remote from the plant proper as possible.

In a repair shop there is more or less gasoline and the risk is too great, it is reasoned by the company, to maintain one at close proximity. This fact was vividly impressed upon the company a few days ago when a gallon of gasoline in the repair shop in the Kokomo Automobile works exploded and destroyed the plant.

CHANGE OF HANDS NIL.

St. Joseph County Commissioners Refuse Many Applications.

South Bend, Ind., March 9.—Holding that saloons changing hands in the last year are new saloons in fact, under the provisions of the new Proctor law, the St. Joseph county commissioners' meeting in adjourned session, refused nineteen applications for liquor licenses and only granted twenty-one out of a total list of forty-three. The remaining applications had been led by mistake and were withdrawn by the appliants. The men refused licenses are allowed ten days to appeal to the circuit court, but must suspend business at the expiration of that period if they do not care to contest the decision.

Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of othine and remove them. Even the first night's use will show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely. It is absolutely harmless, and cannot injure the most tender skin.

Be sure to ask Meyer Bros. Co. for the double strength othine; it is this that is sold on the money back guarantee. Meyer Bros. Co., Four Drug Stores.

NEW GLOVE FACTORY.

Geneva Business Men Offer Free Rent to New Industry.

Geneva, Ind., March 9.—Within the next twenty days, Geneva expects to have a glove factory, the same to be established here by Dr. C. S. Clark and Joseph Tonnellier, two prominent residents of Decatur. The business men of the town have agreed to help on the good cause by giving a bonus of the rent of the building in which the factory will be located, the A. G. Briggs residence on Line street, the main street of the town, having been secured for this. The building is a large brick, one well adapted for the factory. It is understood that about ten machines will be installed to begin with, and the factory will open as soon as the machines and other furnishings can be gotten here, which it is expected will be within twenty days. Clem Heidemann, of Decatur, will be the manager of the plant, he recently resigning from service as clerk for the Schaub, Gottenmoller & Co.'s hardware store at that place, where he had served for several years, to enter upon this new work.

WILL HAVE FOUR SALOONS.

Columbia City Will Be Limited to Four Thirst Parlors.

Columbia City, Ind., March 9.—The commissioners decided Wednesday afternoon about 3 o'clock to limit the saloons in Whitley county to one for each 1,000 population for each unit. This will give Columbia City four saloons and would give Churubusco two, perhaps, if the territory outside the corporation limits can be included. The action of the board was unanimous.

At the same time the board decided to continue all applications on file for license to sell liquors till the 30th day of March, by which time the result of the option elections in this city and in Smith township will be known, and the applicants for license and the commissioners can then act more certainly and know more fully the real situation. They have also extended to applicants the right to amend their applications if they are imperfect in any particular owing to provisions of the new laws recently enacted.

FALLS DOWN STAIRS.

Hartford City, Ind., March 9.—Miss Hester James, 75, was seriously, if not fatally injured Tuesday evening when she fell down stairs and suffered a broken collar bone and other injuries. Miss James lives with her sister, Mrs. Ad Wilson, on Broadway. When she attempted to descend the stairway she lost her balance and plunged headlong down the flight, sustaining probable internal injuries. Owing to her advanced age it is feared she cannot recover.

COUNTESS AGAIN IN LIMELIGHT

COUNTESS GIZYCKI.

Chicago, March 9.—Hitherto unknown troubles of Count Josef Gizycki of Austria-Hungary, and his wife, formerly Miss Eleanor Patterson, daughter of the late R. W. Patterson and cousin of J. Medill McCormick, have been laid bare here. It devolved, according to a dispatch from Vienna, that the count and his Chicago wife had figured in a suit for separation brought in the Austrian courts. The count, who brought the suit, obtained permission to remove the protecting arm of a husband from his wife.

The decree, granted to the count in Vienna, is peculiar and has no exact counterpart in America. It is known as a "separation from bed and board." It is not a divorce, however, it is held, and is binding in that neither of the parties may marry again during the lifetime of the other.

RIVER AND SEWAGE PROBLEMS.

The river beautification and sewage problems ought to be kept to the front now that public attention has been fixed again upon these questions. The sewage problem cannot be separated from the river improvement project. The two must be inseparably joined in any enterprise that concerns river improvements. There can be no improvement of the river banks and courses without making other disposition than now is made of the immense volume of sewage poured into the streams. The cleaning and embellishing of the river banks, while for itself eminently worth while, is urged by higher than esthetic considerations. They are dumping grounds for garbage and other filth. They are made unsightly by near a century's accumulation of rubbish, by stables, outhouses and tumbling shacks. They are the depositories of indescribable filth and the breeding place of disease. They can be cleaned; but, save that they be beautified and made public places, they will not remain clean. In this case the esthetic will very capably serve the practical. With this transformation there must be a change of methods of disposing of sewage. The rivers cannot and ought not to receive it. Public health dictates that and this problem will begin to press before long. Fort Wayne is growing rapidly and the time when it will be a city twice its present size is a contingency that begins to loom in the vision of those who owe a duty to generations that are coming on. Nor is it all for posterity that provision must be made. We have our own contingencies to meet in this situation. Let the people of Fort Wayne remember that.

Great Britain is said not to view with very good temper the extensive military demonstration under way on the Mexican border. No special interest in Mexico, but just an all-round apprehension that the next big military demonstration may be made along the border on the other side. Some purely jocose, some merely idle and some seriously meant talk about annexation brought out by the recent discussions of the reciprocity question, has given both Canadians and Britons some uneasiness as to the purpose this nation may ultimately harbor respecting Canada. There is no immediate occasion for alarm and there may be no occasion ever. Canada more probably will be a free and independent nation long before she is a part of the United States of America. But with Canada drawing the bulk of her settlers in the great grain empire of the northwest from the United States she must expect sooner or later to find development of a good deal of annexation sentiment among her people.

Marion and Kokomo, two cities which were voted "wet" by small majorities in the first batch of option elections under the new law, may not after all return to the anticipated state of irrigation. The board of commissioners in Grant county has ruled that the "wet" majority returned in the city of Marion was procured by fraud and crimes against the ballot and therefore has refused to issue any licenses upon the representation that the city declared for saloons. A majority of only thirty-five was shown and anti-saloon leaders declare it can be proved that fraudulent votes in sufficient numbers to invalidate the election were cast in the option contest. A similar fight will be made in Howard county over the Kokomo "wet" victory. The majority there was little more than in Marion. If the anti-saloon interests win the contest at Marion it insures another long "dry" spell in that city.

One saloon to each thousand of population appears to stand in great favor in the counties of Indiana where the boards of commissioners have considered the matter. Most of the counties that so far have dealt with this phase of the saloon question have put the saloon ratio down to the limit. This regulation becomes immediate in the counties which, after having been "dry" under the old law, are recalling saloons under the new. In counties whose irrigating enterprises have suffered no interventions from "dry" majorities the process of reduction will be very gradual. In Fort Wayne it is figured that several years will elapse before the number of saloons will have been cut to the 1 to 500 ratio. Meanwhile, no new ones can open and that's some consolation.

Mr. Ballinger's threat to get after the foul "conspirators, who have been pursuing him with the assassin's knife" and nip 'em in the bud will doubtless be welcomed by the conspirators, whoever they are and wherever they may be. A judicial tribunal will not be like the congressional committee, where a majority controlled by friendly prejudices made getting at the truth always difficult and sometimes impossible. Mr. Ballinger probably will take time to think over his proposed adventure in the courts before he sets out in that direction.

Mr. Taft assures Senor Diaz that there is no design on Mexico or anything Mexican; merely a war frolic for the troops and a workout for the commissary and transportation departments of the army. That ought to reassure Senor Diaz, and doubtless it will so long as the Uncle Samuelites remain on their own side of the border. Land grabbing in the Caribbean and in the far Pacific may, however, have raised a bit of natural distrust in Mexico as it has in Canada and Mother England.

If Chief of Police Abbott will establish as a working principle that no minor youth is going to learn the least thing of advantage to him in a poolroom and that he is pretty sure to learn things much to his detriment he will not find any reason for leniency or moderation in his enforcement of the law against poolroom keepers.

Colonel Roosevelt is going to make a thorough test of his long and intricate chain of limelights from coast to coast and back again with some criss-crossing for variety. Colonel Henri Watterson is pretty certain to have returning visions of a man on horseback before long.

Another assault on the Baldwin estate has failed. This may be the result of a general principle to be laid down by California tribunals. It hardly can be denied that old "Lucky" left a good deal of flesh and blood scattered over the coast country.

The saloons are finding it a lot harder to "come back" than was the expectation when the new option law was passed. That measure provides for a good deal, but not for everything in the pro-saloon program.

THE BAILEY RESIGNATION.

(New York American.)

It is no ordinary man who represents the state of Texas in the senate of the United States.

It will avail nothing to those who criticise Joseph W. Bailey, as the New York American finds it necessary to do, to deny to him the possession of great gifts and brilliant attainments. He is perhaps the most gifted man in the great assembly in which he moves.

But the brilliant gifts and attainments of the Texas senator have not availed to save him from a personal stigma which, falling upon his radiant morning, will doubtless follow him into the evening shdows of his political career.

Senator Bailey, since the Waters-Pierce case in Texas, has in public opinion come to be as definitely and clearly classed with the senators of "privilege" and the "interests" as Aldrich or Lodge or Carter or Crane.

If there remained any doubt of the justice of this alignment the impassioned incident of Saturday will lay it to rest.

His resignation was handed in as a protest against progressive democracy, and, according to the reports of the Associated Press, the senators who were closeted with him when he finally agreed to withdraw that resignation were not the great leaders of his own party, but Senator Root, of New York, and Crane, of Massachusetts, and Lorimer, of Illinois.

Senator Bailey has now clearly and unmistakably separated himself from the majority of the party to which he claims allegiance in the senate. Even the eleven senators who signed the petition for his withdrawal of the resignation do not profess agreement with his reactionary views, while two-thirds of the democratic senators will rally under other leadership to the standard of the progressive democracy which Owen represented in his attitude toward the Arizona constitution.

As a democratic leader Bailey commands a coterie of not more than seven senators, while the great body of his party marches on in step with the new and better democracy of today.

If Bailey had been sincere in resigning because he was out of touch with the majority of his party, his action would have been dignified and high.

That he has reconsidered his resignation at the final solicitation of senators not of his own party robs his dramatic action of either sincerity or consistency.

The conditions which evoked the resignation are as existent today as they were on Saturday.

The opinion will abide in the minds of the thoughtful that the senator from Texas has remained not to fight the battles of the majority whose rule has always been recognized in his party, but that he stays in the senate upon the appeal of the "interests" as the powerful champion of their claims.

Joseph Bailey's resignation won him great attention and added to his prestige and repute.

His reconsideration under its immediate environment will lose him more than he had gained.

There is nothing in the record to justify the belief that the high appeal of conscience will ever outweigh the strong claim of the corporations in the civic life of the senator from Texas.

TYPHOID PREVENTIVES.

(Pittsburg Dispatch.)

Results of anti-typhoid vaccination are claimed, especially in England, to have been successful. Following the British example, 100,000 doses were prepared in the army medical school of the United States and have been distributed not only throughout the regular army, but in the national guard, to state boards of health and hospitals in several cities.

Reports as to the results are favorable, but it is hardly clear how severe were the tests. For instance, if the men vaccinated were under favorable conditions, with pure water and milk and well-cooked food, their exemption from typhoid is not necessarily a proof of the efficacy of the vaccination. On the other hand, if the troops had been assembled under the disgraceful conditions that existed in the Chickamauga camp of thirteen years ago and vaccination protected them, it would be a decided hit for it. But even then the question remains whether it would not be better and cheaper in the long run to keep the streams free of pollution as the Japanese do?

That question suggests the wider one whether a vaccination for typhoid is highly important in view of other preventives. We have proved here in Pittsburg, as other did before us, that for four-fifths of our former semi-civilized prevalence filtered water was the remedy. If personal prophylactics are needed, it has been demonstrated in individual practice both in Pittsburg and elsewhere—though the profession is singularly slow to recognize it—that minute doses of highly diluted carbolic acid will not only prevent the disease, but will break it up in its early stages. A similar precaution has been asserted to be effective with the cholera in India, while boiling the water and pasteurizing the milk have been safeguards long recognized.

So that vaccination for typhoid, while it may be interesting is not so vital as in the case of other diseases. The fact is that preventives for typhoid fever are so well established that its prevalence is a mark of ignorance and incompetence, next door to criminal.

WHAT COLLEGE MEN DO.

(Leslie's Weekly.)

The statement that the materialism of our day has drawn the college man from the professions to business careers finds no support in the record of our oldest university. The last issue of the Harvard Directory catalogues 32,192 former Harvard men, giving residences and vocations. They are scattered throughout the world, England having 146, Germany having 63, France 83, Japan 86 and China 53. In the vocational list, the law leads with 5,309 representatives, educational work comes second with 3,554, medicine 3,337, manufacturing 1,600 and the ministry more than 1,000. Three hundred and eighty-four have retired from active work, presumably from old age, and 345 have no occupation.

COAT COLLAR WHITE WITH DANDRUFF

Scalp Badly Affected. Itched Terribly, Hair Fell Out, Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Now Has Thick Growth of Hair and is Never Troubled with Any Dandruff or Itching of Scalp.

"I am more than gratified by the successful results I obtained by the use of the Cuticura Remedies. For several years my scalp was very badly affected with dandruff and scales. My scalp itched terribly at times and my hair fell out. My coat collar would be actually white with the dandruff that had fallen from my head. My profession being that of a barber, I was particular about having my hair in good condition, and was also in a position to try many lotions, etc., for the scalp. These had little or no effect. I had heard so much about the Cuticura Remedies that I resolved to try them. I shampooed my head with Cuticura Soap twice a week and after drying my head thoroughly, I anointed parts of my scalp with Cuticura Ointment. I was pleased from the outset, and continued to keep up this treatment. To think that only three cakes of Cuticura Soap and one and one-half boxes of Cuticura Ointment rid my head of this annoying trouble, made me feel quite contented. I have now got a thick growth of hair and I am never troubled with any dandruff or itching of the scalp. There is no question but that the Cuticura Remedies cured me. I frequently recommend them to my customers, and they think a great deal of them, so you see I am very willing to help a good cause along." (Signed) John F. Williams, 307 Norfolk Street, Dorchester, Boston, Mass., July 28, 1910.

to the city by the brothers. It will be known as Mayor Athletic Field.

While the field is given for the purpose of promoting all kinds of athletics and outdoor sports, the surgeons urge that baseball be encouraged, and as a result the Rochester baseball club of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league, will use it for the league park. Besides a diamond, a football gridiron is to be laid out, in the center of which will be grounds for basketball. Back of these will be provisions for tennis and croquet, while around the football and baseball plots will be a quarter mile running track.

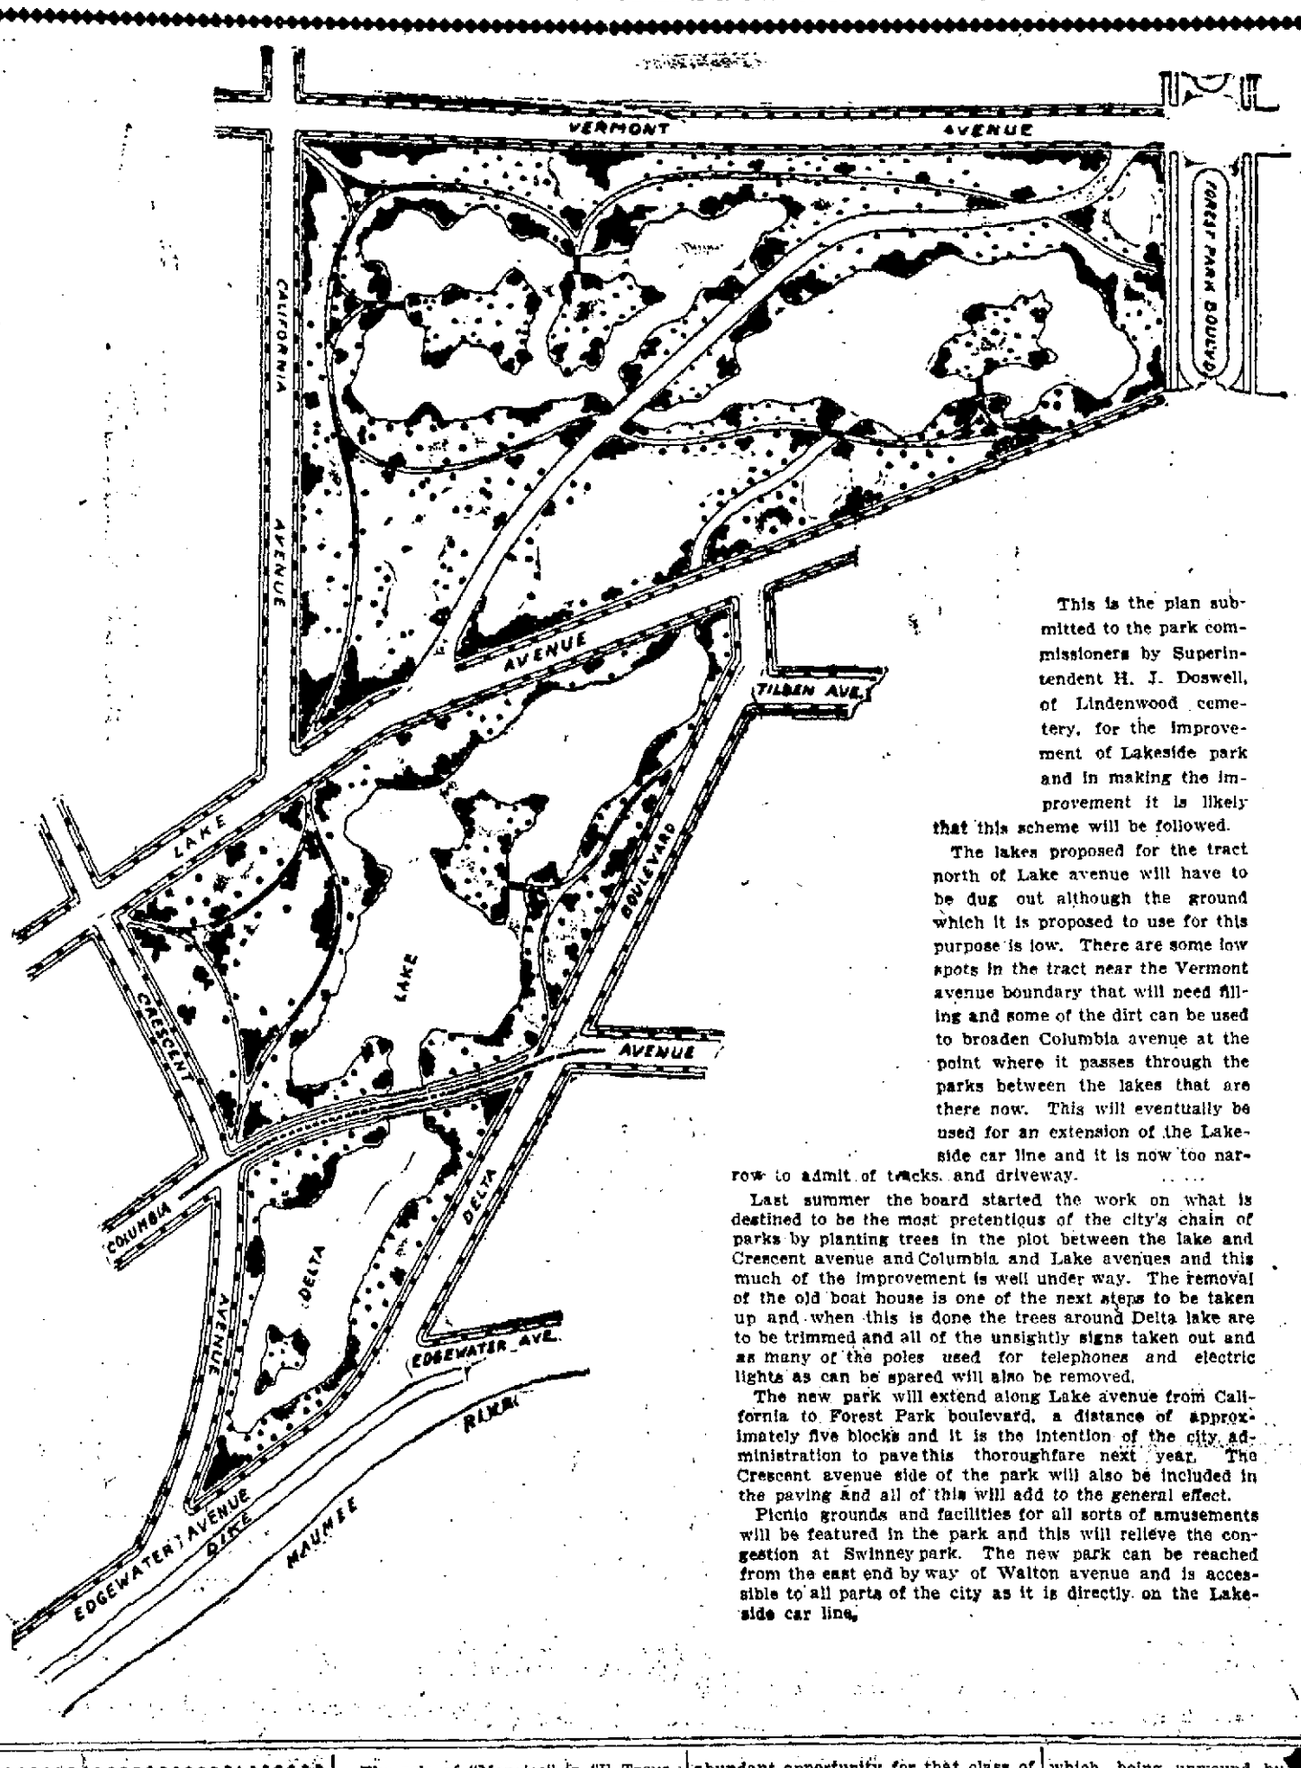
PLAN SUBMITTED TO COMMISSIONERS FOR NEW PARK IN LAKESIDE.



This is the plan submitted to the park commissioners by Superintendent H. J. Doswell, of Lindenwood cemetery, for the improvement of Lakeside park and in making the improvement it is likely that this scheme will be followed.

The lakes proposed for the tract north of Lake avenue will have to be dug out although the ground which it is proposed to use for this purpose is low. There are some low spots in the tract near the Vermont avenue boundary that will need filling and some of the dirt can be used to broaden Columbia avenue at the point where it passes through the parks between the lakes that are there now. This will eventually be used for an extension of the Lakeside car line and it is now too narrow to admit of tracks and driveway.

Last summer the board started the work on what is destined to be the most pretentious of the city's chain of parks by planting trees in the plot between the lake and Crescent avenue and Columbia and Lake avenues and this much of the improvement is well under way. The removal of the old boat house is one of the next steps to be taken up and when this is done the trees around Delta lake are to be trimmed and all of the unsightly signs taken out and as many of the poles used for telephones and electric lights as can be spared will also be removed.

The new park will extend along Lake avenue from California to Forest Park boulevard, a distance of approximately five blocks and it is the intention of the city administration to pave this thoroughfare next year. The Crescent avenue side of the park will also be included in the paving and all of this will add to the general effect.

Picnic grounds and facilities for all sorts of amusements will be featured in the park and this will relieve the congestion at Swinney park. The new park can be reached from the east end by way of Walton avenue and is accessible to all parts of the city as it is directly on the Lakeside car line.

IN THE CITY'S CHURCHES

NOT REMEDY FOR PRESENT EVILS

Rev. Michael Aichinger Preached Interesting Sermon on Socialism.

FIRST OF A SERIES

A congregation that almost completely filled the large auditorium of the St. Peter's Catholic church attended the Lenten services Wednesday evening listening to the sermon of Rev. Michael Aichinger, the assistant pastor of the church on "Socialism," the first of a series of discourses which he will deliver on this general subject.

His theme for this first sermon was, "Socialism; What It Is," and the eloquent young priest held his great audience interested listeners throughout the delivery. He is a pleasing pulpit orator. His voice clear and loud, is one that can be easily heard in all parts of the large auditorium, one of the largest in the city, and his diction and logic such that his thoughts are easily grasped by the audience.

The eloquent young priest, after his introductory words, defined socialism to be "a system advocating the transformation of all capital and the means of production into the common property of the state, or the community, and the administration of the products of this capital and labor by the community, with the distribution of the proceeds by the state or community to the people."

Socialism a Failure.

He traced the history of communism in ancient and modern times and referred to the many instances in which this socialistic system of administering the government for the products of capital and labor had been a failure. In theory it would appear to work well, but in practice it failed to correct the inequalities and the abuses which its advocates claimed for it. It left society in a worse condition.

The speaker pictured Fort Wayne under such a system of government. It would mean, he said, the conversion of all individual property into the common property of the people. The people as a community would conduct all the stores, the manufacturing establishments, the employments of every kind. They would choose the heads and the employes for the transaction of all this great business and the proceeds would go to the people as a community.

The system contemplated that every man should be a worker and that he should be paid for his work and when unable to work by reason of age or otherwise, that he should be a pensioner on the community. It was a system, he said, that appealed to many. No wonder that it secured advocates! No wonder that socialism is strong in many communities! But it was false in its promises and would be radically wrong in its workings, for it would only develop into a worse system for the regulation of the affairs of capital and labor than at present exists.

Not Remedy for Evil

Socialism, he said, is not the remedy for the labor and commercial evils of the present day. It is dangerous. It leads to anarchy, to worse evils than those of the present. The remedy lies in the principles that Christ came from heaven to teach, in the religion that the church stands for, the common brotherhood of mankind, and the carrying out of the commandments, "love thy neighbor as thyself," and "do unto others as ye would be done by."

The first sermon of the brilliant young priest was more for the purpose of telling what socialism is, the giving of something regarding its history and the laying of the foundations for the sermons that are to follow. He characterized it as the foe of religion, but on this phase of his subject he will speak one week from next Wednesday evening. His subject then will be "The Danger of Socialism to Religion Society and the Family." The closing theme of the series of sermons will be "Where Can We Find the True Solution of Socialism?"

Rev. Mr. Aichinger is well qualified on this subject of socialism. He was formerly a worker in the ranks of labor, a wage earner and he has given the socialistic problems a close study.

Popular Shampoo Beautifies Hair

"At last it seems that a genuine remedy for hair and scalp troubles has been found," writes Mae Martyn in the New York American. "The problem of lifeless, unattractive hair and dandruffy, diseased scalps appears to be solved. I find that these conditions disappear almost as if by magic by shampooing the hair with plain canthrox.

"To prepare the shampoo, simply dissolve a teaspoonful of canthrox in a cup of hot water. It makes an abundant lather that cleanses perfectly and rinses easily. The beauty of this shampoo is that it dries very quickly and seems to invigorate and put new life into the hair and scalp. It makes the hair glossy, fluffy and easy to do up. The cost of canthrox is but little and it has the inexpressible approval of every woman who uses it."

AT THE MAJESTIC

JOSEPH SHEEHAN TONIGHT.

America's Greatest Tenor and Big Company in "Il Trovatore."

Joseph F. Sheehan, the celebrated tenor, does not need any introduction. During the years that he was the leading tenor of Henry W. Savage's companies he gained the reputation of America's greatest tenor and his praises have been sung in every part of the country. During the past three years as head of his own company he has added to his glory and the Sheehan English Grand Opera company is today known as the finest opera company singing in the English language.

Not satisfied, however, with all this the great tenor determined to do what has never been done before, make an all star cast production of "Il Trovatore," the most popular opera in the realm of music. With this end in view he has picked from his various artists those best equipped for the different roles in "Il Trovatore," with the result that critics have stated that never before has a performance of "Il Trovatore" been given to equal that of the Sheehan Opera company this year.

The role of "Manrico" in "Il Trovatore" is the greatest in Mr. Sheehan's repertoire; in fact he is the only living tenor today, not excepting Caruso, who takes the high "C" at the end of the "Di Quella Pira!"

Miss Elaine De Sellom, the eminent French contralto, is said to have no equal in the role of "Azucena," the gypsy hag and the entire list of principals, as well as the well trained chorus, have been picked for their special fitness.

The production will be a most elaborate one with special electrical effect in the famous anvil chorus.

Mr. Sheehan with his entire company of famous artists and the complete production will be at the Majestic this evening for a single performance of the world's greatest opera.

IS SKILLED MECHANIC.

Alice Yorke, of "Chocolate Soldier," Manages Own Automobile.

It is a well known fact that singers are always good cooks and notable housewives, and these practical talents may account in a measure for their skill in mechanics. Mme. Melba is never happier than when engaged in taking apart and putting together clocks. Marie Tempest used to boast that she always repaired and kept in order her own bicycle, and now comes Alice Yorke, prima donna of "The Chocolate Soldier" company, who declares that she really doesn't need a chauffeur, so well does she understand how to run and repair her own fifty horse-power automobile.

Miss Yorke has driven a car on long tours, through rough country and in bad weather, and she always keeps her place at the wheel, muffled to the ears, goggled and happy.

When she bought her first car some years ago she took a thorough course in mechanics, and can talk cranks and valves, sparkers, carbureters, boilers, gauges and gears as glibly as she can discuss fugues and arpeggios, mezzo voices and colorature.

"THE BEAUTY SPOT" SATURDAY.

Jefferson DeAngelis and a Fine Company in New Vehicle.

Endorsed by a seven months' run at the Herald Square theater, New York, "The Beauty Spot," a new musical play by Reginald DeKoven and Joseph Herbert, produced under the management of F. Ray Comstock, will be the attraction at the Majestic theater on Saturday matinee and night.

This new musical play brings Jefferson DeAngelis once more before the public as a star, his last engagement being that of "Koko" in the all-star revival of "The Mikado," at the Casino in association with such artists as Fritzi Scheff, Christie MacDonald, Andrew Mack, William Pruette, Mme. Jacoby and Kathleen Nelisen.

Mr. DeKoven has surpassed himself in the music he has written for "The Beauty Spot." It excels in almost every number his former triumphs, "The Highwayman," "Rob Roy" and "Robin Hood." Mr. Joseph Herbert, probably the best known American librettist, has provided Mr. DeAngelis with some exceptionally clever songs, among which are: "A Garden of Girls," "The Cinematograph Man," "Foolish Questions" and "The Boulevard Glide," all of which give him an abundant opportunity for that class of comedy of which he is the chief exponent.

Chief in his support is George MacFarlane, he of the splendid baritone voice of full range. Mr. MacFarlane plays the part of the artist lover, but to hear him sing "Creole Days" will make almost anyone forget all but that song.

Viola Gillette, as the general's wife, whose picture gives the name to the piece, leaves nothing to be desired in her playing and singing; in fact the entire cast is almost identical with that which gave the first performance of the piece at the Herald Square theater.

"SCHOOL DAYS" NEXT WEEK.

Special Matinees Tuesday and Wednesday for Popular Production.

"School days," Gus Edwards' charming and rollicking musical oddity comes to the Majestic next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday with matinees Tuesday and Wednesday. True to it's name it has only to do with children but the youngsters depicted on the stage are so clever and funny that every adult who attends a performance will grow young watching them.

A school yard, a school room and the home of one of the pupils are the background for three acts of laughter, song and sentiment. Through the comedy runs the thread of a plot, which, being unwound by the school boys and girls, gives to a homeless little girl a father and mother and sees a penniless lad with real musical genius well started on the road to success.

Herman Timberg continues at the head of the cast. Besides being a talented singer and eccentric dancer Mr. Timberg plays a violin like a wizard and makes a pronounced impression everywhere. Other members of the company are Edna Reming as "Nonnie," the homeless little thief girl, Daniel Murphy, Dolly Dupree, Alma Bauer and others.

HONEST CONFESSION
A Doctor's Talk on Food.

There are no fairer set of men on earth than the doctors, and when they find they have been in error they are usually apt to make honest and manly admission of the fact.

A case in point is that of a practitioner, one of the good old school, who lives in Texas. His plain, unvarnished tale needs no dressing up:

"I had always had an intense prejudice, which I can now see was unwarrantable and unreasonable, against all muchly advertised foods. Hence, I never read a line of the many 'ads' of Grape-Nuts, nor tested the food till last winter.

"While in Corpus Christi for my health, and visiting my youngest son, who has four of the ruddiest, healthiest little boys I ever saw, I ate my first dish of Grape-Nuts food for supper with my little grandsons.

"I became exceedingly fond of it and have eaten a package of it every week since, and find it a delicious, refreshing and strengthening food, leaving no ill effects whatever, causing no eructations (with which I was formerly much troubled), no sense of fullness, nausea, nor distress of stomach in any way.

"There is no other food that agrees with me so well, or sits as lightly or pleasantly upon my stomach as this does.

"I am stronger and more active since I began the use of Grape-Nuts than I have been for 10 years, and am no longer troubled with nausea and indigestion." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

SOCIETY

The first party of the season suggestive of the approach of St. Patrick's day was the one this afternoon for which Mrs. Charles M. Mills and Mrs. Fred W. Freese were hostesses at the home of Mrs. Freese in West Wayne street. In the hall a group of lovely ferns met the eye and when the guests were seated for the bridge game, that was the chief amusement, they found shamrock leaves of green cardboard had the table tally cards fastened to them and individual tallies were pretty favors. In the rooms were vases of purple cinerarns and on the piano a bowl of daffodils formed a pretty contrast to other colors. Green and white were the principal colors used, however, in the decoration and when the supper was served the appointments and the menu expressed those colors in many dainty and pretty ways. As each guest was seated she found the silver pieces she was to use tied together with green baby ribbon and a very tiny white clay pipe stuck in the ribbon bows. The napkins were in St. Patrick designs of shamrock and odd figures. The pralines were green and white, peppermint and lime flavors, the ice cream was in green and white and the shamrock shape was used as much as possible. The chandeliers were wreathed in smilax and green and white carnations in the living-room were still another expression of the colors of the party, which was a beautiful one in every way. The hostesses were assisted during the afternoon by Miss Freese, Misses Ethel and Olive Doud and Miss Pauline Pohlmeyer. Mrs. S. C. Freese, of Bloomington, was a visiting guest.

The first of a series of three parties was given by Mrs. F. G. Gauntt, of Washington boulevard west, this afternoon. About twenty-five ladies enjoyed a game of bridge in the midst of pretty blooming plants, ferns and vases of tulips, daffodils, sweetpeas and other fragrant flowers. After the game tempting refreshments were served the guests by Miss Olive Gauntt, Miss Charlotte Sites and Miss Louise Pickard.

Mrs. John G. Lewis, senior, and Mrs. John G. Lewis, junior, have issued invitations to a thimble party they will give at their home, 1205 Fulton street, on Thursday afternoon, March 23.

Miss Edna Perrine has returned from a visit in Lafayette.

Mrs. James H. Fray and daughter, Katherine, left on Tuesday for Indianapolis to live.

Miss Minnie Berning, of Blissfield, Mich., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Berning, of East Wayne street.

The Opportunity and Sophie B. Wright circles of King's Daughters will have a joint meeting tomorrow afternoon with Miss Catherine Vesey.

Mrs. H. Grafmiller entertained the Tuesday Embroidery club this week at her home in South Calhoun street. Mrs. J. Miller, of Lafayette street, will be the next hostess.

Mrs. Dan Huefling has returned to Lexington, Ky., from a six weeks' visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Donnel, of 1009 Huestis avenue.

Miss Lydia Buechner, of Herman street, who went west on a trip a few weeks ago, has decided to remain in Los Angeles all winter and has accepted a position in a dry goods house there.

The many friends of Mrs. E. H. Kirkland will hear with much pleasure that her condition is one of improvement and that her attending surgeon is confident of her complete recovery from her recent accident of a broken kneecap, and assures her that the knee will not be stiff.

Mr. and Mrs. Jud Overmyer and family have returned to Fort Wayne to make their home, after a few years' residence in Pennsylvania. Mr. and Mrs. Overmyer returned last night and are guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Fitch. Mr. Overmyer is in the cement business with John Brooks.

Mrs. Charlotte Brantmeyer, a highly esteemed resident of Fort Wayne for fifty-five years, is celebrating her eighty-first birthday anniversary today and there will be a family gathering at Mrs. Brantmeyer's home at 1128 Ewing street this evening at dinner. Mrs. Brantmeyer is a native of Germany and came to this country when she was thirteen years old.

Miss Jennie Duemling, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. A. Duemling, had a birthday party yesterday from 4 to 9 o'clock in celebration of her birthday anniversary. There were eighteen young girls who enjoyed the fashioning of paper dolls from quantities of many colors of tissue and crepe paper and a very delicious supper served at 6 o'clock. There was music and games, all of which contributed to the happy time the guests enjoyed. The supper table was beautiful in its yellow and white dress. In the center of the table was a large basket filled with daffodils, jonquils and ferns and white candles hooded in yellow cast their soft light over small crystal vases filled with various spring flowers that each one received as a favor. The effect was lovely and the delight of the children a pleasure to see. Mrs. Duemling, who arranged this party for her daughter, was assisted at supper time by Miss Clara Kampe.

FOR THE WOMAN WHO EMBROIDERS

By MRS. JANE FORD.

The severely plain frock of linen, hand embroidered, is surely the smart gown of the summer, and neither the empire nor the princess can lay claim to the new lines of these dresses, for while the effect is that of a high waist, we have the unbroken lines from the shoulders to the hem, and yet they do not fit in to the figure as in the regular princess. These charming models seem to hang rather than fit, and they are sure to be comfortable. There is much talk of late among those high up in the art of dress about the normal figure (without corsets), and it is whispered that a few of the fashionable women in Paris have adopted the suggestion of their modiste and are having gowns made without the usual boned stays under them. Whether this mode of dress will ever become general is doubtful, but the lines of these new frocks certainly indicate a tendency to bring about this change, and they are extremely pretty.

It is a style that can be worn by women advanced in age as well as by young girls, and it is not necessary for one to possess an exceptionally good figure in order to appear well in the models.

To develop a dress of this character satisfactorily material having considerable body must be selected. Heavy linens, Shantung silks, foulards, Challis or cashmere are admirable for the purpose. As a trimming embroidery is given preference, and at first one may be frightened by the thought of putting in so much time on one dress; you will feel quite different about it when you are told that the designs are of such a character and the thread used so coarse that the work may be completed in two or three evenings. The embroidery is applied in two distinct styles, and either is smart. The panel effect shown on the front view is suggested for stout figures, and the band shown on the small drawing for tall, slender figures.

The stamping is not done until after the dress is completely finished. The transfer patterns can be had at the department stores or at small shops where they make a specialty of such work.

This style of dress brings footwear in prominence, and a shabby or unsuitable pair of shoes cannot easily be hidden. Dull kid or Russian leather in either black or tan, with a heavy sole and moderate Cuban heel, is in keeping. Lisle thread or silk stockings, of a rather heavy texture, are in good taste, but one should avoid gauze weaves, as they are only suitable for evening wear with fancy slippers.

To make the dress for the average person it requires six and one-eighth yards of thirty-six inch material, or five and one-quarter yards of forty-four inch goods.

SILK AND LINEN.

In the shops there are displayed suits and dresses of linen that are decidedly attractive in design and ornamentation. There are some features that are dominant on many of the distinctive models. One means of trimming is new and effective. It is silk or satin.

It is used as girdles on many little one-piece frocks. Slots, buttonholed and of considerable width, are worked at the sides of the front. Through these the silk sash can be passed and conveniently removed before washing.

Many of these silk girdles have ends that hang half way down the skirt. These may be at the side, the front or the back.

Rosettes of silk are used on many linen frocks. They are easily removed and give a very easy trimming for a little dress of plain-colored linen.

Buttons of black silk or satin are effective little ways of trimming a dress of linen. It is a matter of a few minutes to remove them or to replace them. They are undeniably worth the trouble.

The extra sailor collars are quite evident on imported frocks of linen, and can be incorporated with the blouse if the color of the suit or dress be of the unsoilable kind.

These square collars are of foulard, of black silk or satin and of colored silk deeper in shade than the material of which the dress is made. They are frequently trimmed with narrow collars of fine linen or lace laid upon them and softening the line at the neck.

Cuffs of silk or satin are the natural continuation of the collar idea. They, too, need not be alone in their glory.

As for the simple little bows and sailor knots of silk, they are used with much effect and convincing beauty on many linen frocks and suits.

The introduction of silk on linen is an important one this season. Do not neglect the idea, for it contributes much to the attractiveness of a gown.

PREPARATIONS FOR "EGYPTA."

Great Chorus to Sing at Production of Operetta in April.

A meeting of the publicity committee to arrange for advertising of the coming production of "Egypta" for the benefit of the Playgrounds association was held yesterday afternoon with Mrs. Gart Shober, chairman of the committee, and Miss Fanny Winch, general chairman of all committees, present to direct proceedings. The publicity committee consists of representatives from the city newspapers. Matters for the big production, which will be given April 4 to April 8, inclusive, at the Majestic theater are rapidly progressing. O. E. Richard, the well known chorus and choir director of the First M. E. church, has received between eight and nine hundred names of adult singers for the chorus. Postal cards are issued today stating that the first rehearsal will be held in the hall in the Elektron building on Friday of next week at 7:30 o'clock. Prof. William Miles has been drilling the children's choruses for three weeks and they have their parts nearly committed to memory. The adult chorus names have been sent in on invitation from Mr. Richard to leaders of choruses, choirs and music schools to send him lists of singers. It is possible that someone has been overlooked and everyone who would like to take part who does not receive a card within a few days is requested to communicate with Mr. Richard. Singers are requested to present invitation cards at the first rehearsal they attend. The music is not difficult and not many rehearsals are required. William Chenery, of Chicago, who puts the production on, will be in the city the last of this week and will take general charge of arrangements. Chairmen of various committees are: On music, Mrs. Ferd Urbahns; on adult chorus, O. E. Richard; on children's chorus, Prof. William Miles; on oriental drill, Mrs. Fred McCulloch; on loyal legion, Mrs. W. E. Davis; on advertising, Mrs. Gart Shober; on patrons, Mrs. C. M. Dawson.

Miss Winch, who is general local chairman in place of Mrs. Samuel Taylor, who is too ill to continue the work, lives at 2026 Maumee avenue and her telephone number is 1701 red.

FOUR SCORE AND EIGHT YEARS OLD

Gustave Spiegel, Pioneer Merchant, Celebrates His Anniversary.

After sixty years of residence in Fort Wayne, Gustave Spiegel, retired shoe merchant who lives with a son and his family at 1139 Jones street, reached the advanced age of eighty-eight years yesterday, March 8. The birthday anniversary was celebrated with a family gathering, nearly all members of Mr. Spiegel's family being present, the exception being the wife and children of Rev. Gustave Spiegel of Jackson, Mich., and several grandchildren. Rev. Mr. Spiegel was here, however, and a sister, Mrs. Augusta Liebman, also of Jackson, and the sons and daughters who live in this city. A family dinner party Wednesday evening was attended by Rev. Gustave Spiegel, Mrs. Mary Kirchner, Mrs. Augusta Liebman, William A. Spiegel, F. C. Spiegel and Carl Spiegel with their respective families. For nearly fifty years Mr. Spiegel was a shoe merchant of this city. He was born in Saxony, Germany, and came to this country and settled in New York when about twenty years old. He was married in New York to Miss Mary Baals, whose demise occurred about six years ago. When about twenty-eight years old Mr. Spiegel and his family moved to Fort Wayne. For the first few months of his residence here Mr. Spiegel was employed in the Foellinger shoestore. Then he went into business for himself in East Columbia street, but met with a loss by fire and was obliged to move into new quarters but in the same street. Fire for the second time destroyed the store and stock and then Mr. Spiegel sought employment with Kline & Marsh, a shoe firm on the east side of Calhoun between Columbia and Main streets. There success really began and in a short time Mr. Spiegel bought out the business but later moved into the Swinney block. A few years of success there served only to make the young merchant look for a better opening where business and the family did not need to be so far apart and Mr. Spiegel then moved his goods into a building in Broadway between Jefferson and Wilt streets, where he conducted a thriving trade for about forty years. Mr. Spiegel is a Lutheran and was a charter member of Emanuel church, West Jefferson street. No better proof of the religious training and living of the family is needed than the fact that of Mr. Spiegel's descendants, a son and two grandsons, are members of the ministry. The grandsons are Rev. A. G. Spiegel, of Sheboygan, Mich., and Rev. Gustave Kirchner, of San Luis Obispo, Cal. A granddaughter married Rev. Otto Schroeder, of Hamlet, this state, and they were present at the anniversary celebration Wednesday. There are twenty-two grandchildren and ten great-grandchildren in the Spiegel family. Mr. Spiegel withdrew from active business life five years ago. The family is a musical one and a number of the sons have been in the music business for years, while two of the granddaughters of this city have won local prominence as violin and piano performers.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

It has become a fad to embroider new luncheon cloths with strips of linen on which are embroidered yellow of blue corn flowers with running vines. Have the strips four inches wide, then join them together with four-inch strips of lace. Finish with a linen hem, lace edged. An undercloth to match the colors in the embroidery is used with it.

To Clean Jewelry.

In caring for your own jewels it is well to know how to clean them properly. For all gold pieces and diamond rings and pins fold a linen cloth in the bottom of a small basin, lay the jewels upon it and cover with boiling water to which a teaspoon of ammonia has been added. When cool enough to bear the hand in it go over each piece with a soft brush and castile soap. Drop into a box of fine boxwood dust and shake until they are dry. Brush lightly with another soft brush, polish with chamois or soft white tissue paper. Be sure before throwing out the water that the stones are all intact and have not been dislodged in the cleaning process. A rouge stick or chamois may be used if an extra polisher is needed.

The last day of Mammoth Cave lecture at the Colonial.

THE COMING SKIRTS.

They will show more fullness that is a decided departure from the shackled line of the winter. But this fullness will be scanty enough to preserve a straight line.

An effort to hold to the slender effect at the hips is made by all makers. So if fullness be introduced it is shirred and tucked in many cases to give a yoke effect. On suits there is a suggestion of a circular yoke that extends quite below the hip line.

On dressy afternoon frocks and on nearly all types of evening gowns a decided return to the graceful train is evident. It is certainly less convenient, but more becoming; and womankind, after a short freedom due to the "Little Girl" modes, is ready to adopt the beauty minus comfort.

NEW SALADS FOR EARLY SPRING.

By Jeannette Young Norton.

As spring approaches one's thoughts naturally turn with anticipation to the fresh growing green things that flourish out of doors or in cold frames at the nearby sources of supply for this great city. Freshly gathered watercresses and dandelion salad are the first to be really gathered out of doors, then the early lettuces, upland cress, romaine, field lettuce, chickory, pepper grass and a number of others familiar and much sought after in different localities, are always received with an appreciative welcome. The salad course has become so great a feature in the daily family menu that it is not wise to overlook or attempt to sidetack it, for many people even prefer it to the dessert course, doing without the latter to be able to have it.

Vegetable Salads.

While the many excellent cook books on the market give various good receipts for salads, it is from the real cooks themselves that we get the gems. The unusual salads are, as a rule, a rather expensive luxury for everyday use, the fish salads and meat salads are fairly well known, the vegetable salads are also becoming well known, such as asparagus, cauliflower and the macedoine of vegetables. The ever welcome potato salad is always a standby for the young housekeeper in making up her daily variety. The fruit salads are not always as popular as they should be, for many feel that just before the dessert course they take away the zest for the sweet to follow. Perhaps this is true, but they are so healthy that this should be their excuse for being.

The recipes given below are rather new and are tried and reliable as are recipes that are given by the writers on The Sentinel culinary staff.

Bonbon Salads.

Shape small sized balls of new Pimento cheese and roll them in finely ground pecan nuts, press a half white grape on either side of the cheese. Allow six to a portion arranged on white lettuce leaves, and cover with heavy mayonnaise, to which a little whipped cream has been added just before serving.

Sweetbread Salad.

Parboil, blanch and chill one good pair of sweetbreads and cut them into small pieces. Grind fine one dozen salted almonds, six olives, one green pepper and one gherkin pickle. Add these to the sweetbreads with the juice of a lemon, juice of one onion and a wine glass of sherry. Let stand one hour, then drain and serve in green pepper cases with mayonnaise dressing.

The invariable rule of good salad making is to have all of the ingredients ready, but not to mix the salad until the last possible moment. Of course, celery, where it is used, holds a salad up pretty well, but if dressed too long it is bound to grow wiltered and unappetizing.

Doughnuts.

A reliable recipe calls for one egg beaten with a half cupful of sugar, a quarter of a teaspoonful of salt, a half teaspoonful of grated nutmeg and cinnamon mixed, a half cupful of milk, one cupful of flour, one heaping teaspoonful of baking powder and enough more flour to just roll out. Cut and fry in deep, smoking hot fat.

Rice Pudding

For each quart of milk used allow one tablespoonful of washed rice, two tablespoonfuls of sugar (more if liked quite sweet), one teaspoonful of butter and a third of a teaspoonful of salt. When all ingredients are in the baking dish add either a little grated nutmeg or a teaspoonful of vanilla and place in a slow oven. When a brown skin forms over the top turn it under a couple of times then stir carefully without disturbing the top. Allow two hours or more for the baking until the rice is well swollen and about half of the liquid absorbed or evaporated. Then set aside and serve very cold.

The Beat of the Year

By Robert Livingston Beecher

COPYRIGHT, 1909, BY THE PEARSON PUBLISHING CO.

Bruce looked at the writing for a moment. Then, while the janitress's back was turned, he slipped the photograph into his pocket.

On the front stoop, Bruce thanked the woman for her assistance, and looked at his watch. It was five o'clock. He jumped into a passing trolley car and, ten minutes later, entered the livery stable of O'Brien & Dorlan.

The place was swarming with reporters; but, much to Bruce's relief, Connors was not among them. In fact, he only knew they were newspaper men by instinct. He did not remember to have seen any of them before.

As he entered, he found the center of the stable occupied by Michael McGinnis, the head stableman. The latter, indeed, was in none too good humor and, as Bruce approached, McGinnis turned a scowling red face upon him.

"See here, young bucko," he burst out, his red hair bristling with indignation. "Don't yer begin asking me the history of me life. I nivir seen the young feller before; I nivir expect to clap eyes on him agin; he didn't leave any muss in the wagon, and that's all. Yours truly, Mike McGinnis."

Bruce saw that his fiery friend would need fiery treatment.

"I didn't come to pester you with questions, Mr. McGinnis," he began, soothingly. "You've summed up the case completely yourself." Bruce was aware that several of the strange reporters had strolled up behind him and were now well within earshot. "All I want," he continued, with a wink at the brawny Irishmen, "is a runabout for an hour or so and someone to drive me around. I'm in the real-estate business in Chicago, and I don't know the lay of the land out here worth a cent."

Bruce knew instinctively that the reporters behind him were exchanging dubious glances.

"Well," said McGinnis, slowly, with a puzzled expression, "I'll let yer have a runabout and a good, reliable man at the usual rates, two dollars an hour. Here, Jawn, hitch up the green runabout and show our frind the sights of the town."

Bruce frowned at the disappearing "Jawn," who was already among the stalls, and then, turned again to McGinnis.

"I want a better, more intelligent man than that, Mr. McGinnis," he remarked. "Someone about your stamp. Can't you give me an hour or so of your time?"

McGinnis saw another wink slowly materialize out of nothing and vanish again. Then the puzzled expression on his own face gradually faded away also.

"My time's valuable, young feller," he said, meaningly.

The young man smiled.

"I am accustomed to paying well for the assistance of valuable men," he said, with an important air. "What is your figure?"

McGinnis took off his hat and scratched his head.

"Well," he said at last; "I think about five dollars an hour will hit it about right."

"You're on," said Bruce, briskly.

As he turned away, he caught some disjointed fragments of whispered conversation behind him.

"He is, I tell you. I saw him when I was on that kidnapping case."

"Well, what shall——"

Bruce walked over from the doorway and stepped into the green runabout. McGinnis swung up beside him, and they rolled down the street.

"What's your paper, lad?" McGinnis asked, his eyes dancing.

Bruce told him.

At half-past five the green runabout drew up at the button factory in Long Island City and Bruce and McGinnis were ushered into the superintendent's office. Bruce briefly explained the identity of his companion and then pointed to the large photograph on the wall.

"See if you see our friend there, McGinnis," said he.

The Irishman stepped up to the picture, looked at it for a moment, and then laid a big thumb on the figure of a man at the left end of the front row.

"That's him," he said, with an air of complete conviction. "That's his mustache all right."

The superintendent looked at the man indicated and whistled. Then he reversed the frame and glanced at the key on the back.

"Yes, I thought so," he said.

He adjusted the picture in its proper position and studied the group again. Then he turned and faced the two excited men before him.

"Did you find Joyce?" he asked abruptly.

"No," replied Bruce. "I didn't. He left his flat-house at seven o'clock last night and hasn't been seen since."

The superintendent stroked his iron-gray beard.

"It doesn't necessarily prove anything," he said, at last. "The fact that that man whom Mr. McGinnis has just pointed out—the fact that he hired a rig last night doesn't necessarily connect him in any way with that body, does it now?"

Bruce shook his head.

"And yet," added the speaker.

"What?" broke in Bruce.

"There's one curious thing about that group," continued the superintendent.

Bruce and McGinnis stared hard at the photograph and then looked inquiringly at the speaker.

"The curious thing, to my mind," said the superintendent, "is the position of a certain girl in that big group of more than three hundred people. Look at that photograph again, and you'll notice that there are about twenty men off in that left corner. There's only one girl among them and she's standing out on the extreme end—next to Mr. McGinnis's man and between him and Joyce. And Joyce is missing."

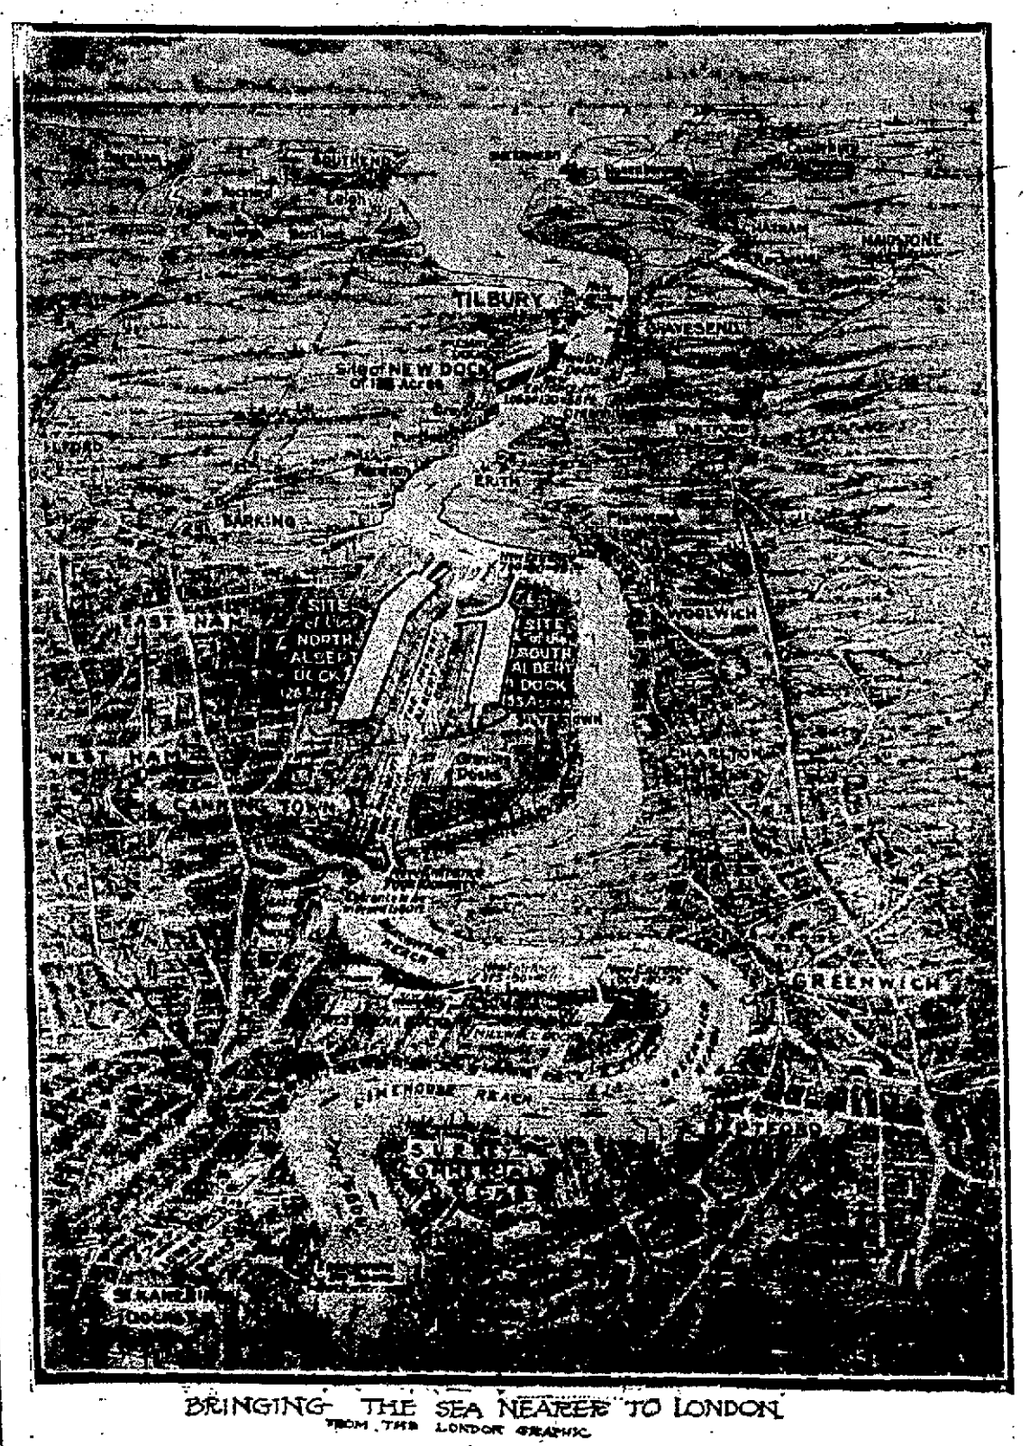
MAKING A MIGHTY SEAPORT OF THE WORLD'S METROPOLIS.



BRINGING THE SEA NEARER TO LONDON
FROM THE LONDON GRAPHIC

While Paris is discussing ways and means of becoming a seaport, the details of a great scheme for the reconstruction of the port of London has been made public. The proposal includes three new docks capable of accommodating the largest ships afloat or projected—one, 55 acres in area, south of the present Albert dock, another, of 126 acres, north of the Albert dock, and a third, of 138 acres, at Tilbury. Most of the present docks will be greatly improved, the depth of the river increased and a passenger landing stage for ocean liners, somewhat on the lines of Price's landing stage at Liverpool, constructed at Tilbury. The estimated cost of the whole scheme is nearly $72,000,000, some $20,000,000, of which is for expenditure on immediate construction.

PLAN HOT WATER PLANT

To Heat Homes on Forest Park Boulevard.

The problem of installing a central hot water heating plant to heat all of the homes on Forest park boulevard has been taken up by the owners of the fifty-six lots bordering the boulevard. It is estimated that within five years the plant would pay for itself.

Lew DeHaven, engineer at the Indiana school for feeble-minded youth, has been sent to Newcastle, Lebanon and other points in the state to investigate plants of the kind desired, and will learn the cost of installing and operation.

An effort may be made to interest the property owners of Forest park addition, and if this can be done a large boiler will be put in the plant if enough of them become interested to warrant it.

LEIST EXPLAINS ACTION OF TEAM

Says His Withdrawal Was on Account of Unfair Methods of League.

THE BOWLING SCORES

John Leist, captain of the team that formerly represented the Hof Brau in the Brunswick Bowling League No. 1, wants it understood that in disbanding the players he did not show any lack of loyalty to the man who backed the club in the organization, but insists that advantage was taken of his desire to be fair with the other clubs and on this point he says relative to games that were postponed on account of the St. Louis tournament and afterward rejected by the league directors:

"On Thursday, February 9, I met Mr. Tonkel and he asked me if we could bowl on Sunday, February 12, and I told him I could not get my team together for a Sunday game, but that we would bowl the Fox Brothers, Saturday, February 11, and he could get his team together for Saturday and we would bowl after we got through with Fox Brothers, and if he could not, I would meet him and we would make arrangements for a date suitable for both. Without the knowledge of Mr. Tonkel or myself the Hatters bowled on Sunday afternoon bowled the games. I stopped at the alleys after the games were over and heard about it. Mr. Tonkel was not at the alleys so I went out to his house to see him; he said he knew nothing about his team bowling as he had not notified his men either way; while we were talking Harry Shelly came in. He said he thought the games were arranged for Sunday and that he did not know until the games were over that one team could not roll one day and the other against the scores some later date. I said those games will not count and will have to be bowled over by Wednesday, which is the ten-day limit. Shelly told Tonkel that three of his men could not bowl Monday or Tuesday, and that he thought that the games with the Centlivres for Wednesday had better be postponed.

"I did not want to take advantage of the team as it looks like it could not get the men together by Wednesday night, so I asked if he could get a team for Saturday, February 18th, which was agreed to.

"I went to see Mr. Stang and he agreed to let us bowl the games on Saturday 18th. I saw Mr. Tonkel the next day and told him, so he notified the alley management and his players. On Saturday 18th the Hof Braus went to bowl the games. Mr. Tonkel was there and a couple of his players, but the players left and their team did not bowl. We bowled our games, it being a regular scheduled game, as the date was fixed by Mr. Stang's consent.

"Mr. Stang failed to sustain his decision at the league meeting in allowing us to bowl, and the directors claiming he had no right to allow it to be bowled over the ten-day limit. The Hof Brau team acted in a fair and square manner with Mr. Tonkel and through no fault of its own did it fail to bowl."

The new Hof Brau five got another hard beating in the series last night at the hands of the Berghoffs, in which Henry Pranger got in the limelight with an average better than 200. Hecht, Pappert and Haas bowled below their averages in the first game, but all the players worked hard in the next two and finished with an average a shade over 900. The scores follow:

TIME AND ILL HEALTH PUT LOU CRIGER OUT OF THE MAJORS

CRIGER CATCHING A HIGH ONE IN PRACTICE

CRIGER WAITING FOR A STRIKE.

CRIGER THROWING TO THE PITCHER

The fact that the New York Americans failed this season to send Lou Criger a contract is of special interest here in Fort Wayne for the reason that the once great backstop started his baseball career in Fort Wayne in 1906. From here he went to Cleveland, but his great reputation was made in Boston where he was at different times a member of both of the teams that represented the Hub in the majors.

Ill health has had more to do with his relegation than any other cause. Of course advancing age calls all the old heads out at some time, but Criger could have stood a few more years of active major league ball with unimpaired health.

Nothing has been heard from him since the announcement that the Highlanders would not need him this season. Last year he took part in only twenty-seven games and he must have seen his release coming as it was his first season of warming the bench and watching a younger man do the work.

SMITH PICKS UP A THIRD SACKER

Wetzel Signs to Play With South Bend Team—Geier Is Secured.

ABOUT COMPLETE

South Bend, Ind., March 9.—Another veteran player was added to Ed Smith's tryouts for the season of 1911, when he received the contract of "Buzz" Wetzel, who played with Wheeling a number of years ago, went to several minor league towns and bobbed up last year with the shattered Grand Rapids aggregation.

Manager Smith believes this will fill out his infield, as he has every confidence in Wetzel's ability to hold down the job at third. Phil Geier has accepted terms and will report here along with the other recruits on April 1.

Geier will be used in the outfield and this will complete the roster as both Toddy Croy and Midgs Craven have signed and the management believes the outposts will be cared for in good shape by this trio.

In signing Geier, Smith knows just what he is doing. In 1907, Smith and Geier played together on the St. Paul team in the A. A. That year Geier stung the pill for .287. He remained in the association during 1908 also, but in 1909 was sold to Topeka in the Western league. The change of climate didn't seem to affect him in the least, for, during that season, he hung up a batting average of .285 and incidentally, stole 25 bases in addition to fielding his position in excellent fashion.

Then, early in 1910, Geier was given a change to manage the Burlington team in the Central association. He had a little hard luck, however, and his team finished in sixth position. Geier then determined to give up managerial work and Smith got into communication with him.

Geier is a real ball player, there is no denying that. His experience in the class A leagues will stand him in good stead and he is certain to hold down a regular job during the coming season. His ability to play either the infield or outer garden will also mean much for the team. In addition to being able to hold down a regular berth, he can be shifted to any other position, making him an ideal utility man.

Just half of the men on the South Bend reserve list for 1911 have signed their contracts. Sixteen contracts have already been received by Owner Bert Annis, while sixteen more are expected shortly. The men who have signed up are: Manager Smith, Craven, Core, Koehler, Kroy, Moffitt, Connors, Holt, Kelly, Hobart, Farley, Bowman, Callahan, Raab, Ross and a third baseman whose name has not yet been divulged. The other sixteen on the reserve list and who are expected to send in their agreements any day, are: Jacobsen, Lindsey, Hayworth, Martin, Tobias, Newcomb, Myers, Holmes, Schmick, Bowen, Millerick, Richardson, Allen, Geier, Grieve and Frazier.

Smith is satisfied with this list of men, as is Bert Annis. So many of them are "sure things" that Smith will be able to build up a team that surely will be a top notcher. They represent a bunch of ball tossers any team in any class B league in the country would give a lot for, and prospects this year look just as bright and Aggie Grant says even better, than they did last year at this time.

JAPANESE TAKE KINDLY TO INSIDE PLAY OF BASE BALL

New York, March 9.—Artie Schaefer, the clever utility man of the Boston Nationals, spent most of the winter teaching baseball to the students of Keio university in Japan. He returned to this country recently and his dope on the Japanese situation is decidedly interesting.

"It was the greatest experience of my life," says Schaefer. "You can't imagine the fun that I had teaching the boys of Keio how to pull off inside baseball. Their batting was something that neededed immediate improvement, and it kept me busy instructing them in the art. The Japanese, you know, have the they should always bunt. No matter idea that, being weak hitters naturally, whether there are men on bases or two out, the batter always attempts a bunt. I convinced them after many lessons that this was all a mistake. I showed them how to turn the ball into right and left fields when there were men on bases, and, if I do say it myself, the Keio team's batting had improved 20 per cent. in the short time I was there. One or two of the players hit the ball pretty hard, but as a whole the Japanese is too small of stature and too weak in the shoulders ever to develop into a great hitter.

"I let the Keio boys understand that I wanted them to adopt my style of game, although for a time they acted a little shy. I know that whatever baseball knowledge they possessed had been picked up here, and that in order to school them it was necessary to begin all over. We'd play a game, and when a certain play arose I would stop and explain it to them. I followed out the same methods that are undertaken by McGraw, since he is one of the greatest exponents of inside baseball today. We made up two teams, and I played with the scrubs against the regulars. Gradually the boys caught on to the fact that my style of game was the most productive of results. I shall never forget the first day that they beat us, 12 to 2, or something like that. They were beside themselves with joy when they found that the runs came over the plate so easily.

"Another thing I did," Artie explained, "was to write 25 pages of different plays—those that ordinarily pop up in the course of a game. They had these translated into Japanese, and at nights would sit around their little charcoal fires figuring it all out. They would set down questions, and the next day would crowd around me and demand explanations. If a play was pulled off during a game and it proved successful they would stop the game and write it down in little books which they carried. It was great sport teaching them to slide. They were without sliding pads, but it didn't make any difference. They would start for a bag and throw themselves down on the hard ground, sometimes taking the skin off one side of them. They were game, however, and, gritting their teeth, would try again and again until they had it perfected."

What amused Schaefer most of all was the eagerness the Japanese displayed in learning baseball slang. One of the first things they wanted to know was how to shout like big leaguers. Schaefer taught them all the pet expressions, like "Up on your toes, old boy! That's the stuff! A little more pepper! Look up! That's where you're goin' to hit it! Come on! A little more of that smoke!" He says they picked it up very quickly, and that sometimes when he would be walking down the street with the members of the team, some boisterous fellow would leap into the air and shout, "That's the stuff, old boy! Step away from it!"

BALL BOUNDED BACK FOR OUT

In his long career on the big league diamonds, Larry Lajoie has hit many and many a baseball on the nose for good, clean drives, but the big second sacker of the Naps declares that the hardest slam he ever took at ball resulted in his slam he ever took at a ball resulted in his dope:

"The afternoon I made my great hit was one of good husky batting. Life was miserable for all the pitchers, and especially for our performers. When the last half of the ninth arrived we were to the bad, something like 9 to 7. There was a hit, an out, a base on balls and a pop fly. I came up, with men on first and second, two gone, and the chance to tie or win before me. The ball came over hissing hot. I grazed it, and that was all. The next one must have been intended simply as a teaser, for it drifted over so slow and easy that a baby could have hit it with a wire. Methinks the hurler never meant to get it near the pan, but was playing wide to get a possible fall out of the runner, who was leading off second. Anyhow, it came over the size of a fat balloon. 'Oh, joy,' said I, and I leaned the bat against that ball with all my might and muscle.

"To the best of my recollection, I never before or since hit a ball so hard as that one. I could feel the leather being driven into the core of the yarn and rubber by the force of that tremendous drive, and the sting ran up the bat with such venom that my hands and wrists blazed burning hot. The ball went out, not whizzing, not sailing, but faster, more terrifically speedy, than anything I ever laid the wood against in all my life.

"There was a glad roar from the multitude, and I went down to first, blaze-bent for a home run, while two men flew for home. Round first I went and steamed for the middle corner. Suddenly a man rose up in my tracks and stuck the ball into my diaphragm—it was the third out and the game was over.

"How and whyfore? Only this: I had hit the ball so fearfully hard that it rebounde back from the right field wall like a snapped piece of rubber band. It shot straight back all the way to the diamond, and leaped right into the second baseman's hands for a sure trap and the last out of the afternoon. And that, kind gentlemen, is the story of the hardest ball I ever hit. Do you wonder that the memory of it gives me pain?"

GAINER WILL BE KEPT BY TIGERS

He and Ness are Battling to See Which Will Be Regular Sacker.

IN THE SPRING CAMPS

Monroe, La., March 9.—Manager Hugh Jennings has announced that he will retain both Gainer and Ness, candidates for the first base job on the Detroit team, and that the two will battle until the season opens to see which shall have the job permanently.

Both are ambitious and both have been hitting the ball regularly and hard, but Gainer has shown a little more speed on the bases and his work around the bag has been of the best class. Donovan, Summers, Mullin and Willetts are sure of their places on the pitching staff with Works and Cavet likely to stick. Covington has not shown proper control thus far.

"STEINY" MUST SIGN CONTRACT.

Manager Chance Names Terms on Which He May Join Cubs.

New Orleans, La., March 9.—Manager Chance received a telegram from Steinfeldt today in which the old third base star said his trunk was at the depot when he learned waivers have been asked on him and he asked for instructions. Chance answered the message, telling "Steiny" if he was willing to sign the one year contract sent him he might report. He is expected to join the team tomorrow or next day, but what the outcome of it will be depends entirely on his showing.

TRAINING CAMP NOTES.

The Cubs and Tigers will probably meet in an exhibition game next week at Monroe, La.

Catcher Lapp, of the Athletics, found that it stung his hands to catch a cold ball yesterday so he heated one in the stove and found that it removed the sting.

The release by Brooklyn of Tony Smith indicates that Dolly Stark will permanently hold down the job at short for the Dodgers.

"Ping" Bodie, the Pacific coast recruit, is living up to his reputation as a home run hitter. He is on the second Sox squad.

It was so warm yesterday at Marlin Springs, Texas, that the Giants had to give up practice during the afternoon.

Pitcher Joe Cooke, obtained by the Cubs from Peoria, will not play Sunday baseball. He had this agreement last season and gave up $25 a month of his salary to get the privilege.

WARNING TO RAILROAD MEN.

Look out for severe and even dangerous kidney and bladder trouble resulting from years of railroading. Geo. E. Bell, 639 Third St., Fort Wayne, Ind., was many years a conductor on the Nickel Plate. He says: "Twenty years of railroading left my kidneys in terrible condition. There was a continual pain across my back and hips and my kidneys gave me much distress, and the action of my bladder was frequent and most painful. I got a supply of Foley Kidney Pills and the first bottle made a wonderful improvement and four bottles cured me completely. Since being cured I have recommended Foley Kidney Pills to many of my railroad friends." Dreier Drug Co.

Cy Falkenburg has already made two home runs on the training trip of the Naps and is now sure that he will have a grand batting average next fall.

Scout Gilks, of the Cleveland club, is trying to teach "Crum" Kaler Walter Johnson's method of delivery and, so the story goes, is finding the former Columbus pitcher a very apt pupil.

Charlie Dooin and Umpire Klem have buried the hatchet and are going to start out the coming season as friends. It may not last long, however, even if they did shake hands over it.

Manager Montgomery, of the Wheeling team, has signed T. A. Haught, a well-known semi-pro of West Virginia, for 1911. Haught has a good record as an outfielder and was fairly good with the willow, batting for .246 last season.

The owner of Whiting park in Hot Springs was severely punished in court yesterday by being fined $1 and costs for permitting a Sunday game to be played on his grounds. The game drew a large crowd and the receipts perhaps were at least $2,000.

Ty Cobb has not reported to the Tigers at Monroe, La., but there is no danger that he will not join the team soon. Manager Jennings has given the star outfielder permission to remain at home for a short time to look after some business.

With the department of justice of the United States government after them and every baseball magnate in the major league sitting up nights to devise ways of putting them out of business, those Newport gamblers are worrying some.

Tom Needham is having a pleasant time of it entertaining all the members of the Cub team at the national game of poker. That is one of Tom's great pleasures—taking coin from the other poker players on the team.

The Terre Haute Trotting association decided to hold a meeting on the new half mile track July 18 to 22 and to try the much discussed plan of allowing horses with mile track records three seconds in entering for class races. The meeting is to be in addition to the one in September.

President Charles W. Murphy, of the Cubs, wired his condolence to President Ban B. Johnson, of the American league, when his father died, and sent a floral piece to show his sentiments. There does not seem to be a very wide gulf between the Cub magnate and the American league head after all.

Catcher Eddie Brennan, with Terre Haute last season, has joined the Toledo team in practice camp at Chattanooga.

That "dental drop," discovered by Oye Crandall, requires the aid of a setting sun and Crandall's gold tooth, with which he flashes a ray into the batter's eye, blinding him.

The great number of fights or so-called boxing exhibitions staged last week all over the state is drawing forth many expressions of discontent from Evansville and Terre Haute fight fans. With fighting in nearly every other part of the state, and well advertised, the downstaters are beginning to yearn to see the boys mill without traveling outside of the city to do so.

A year ago Pittsburg looked to be there with bells on in regard to first base. Jack Flynn and "Bud" Sharpe, stars of the American association and Eastern league, respectively, were on the job, and the Pirates seemed to be in right. Today Sharpe is back in the Eastern and Fred Clarke is looking for a man to take Flynn's place.

GILMORE IS THE FIND OF SEASON

Young Outfielder Turned Downed Here is Making Good Showing.

INJURED ANKLE HERE

When Claude H. Varnell reads in the metropolitan papers of the sensational performances of Grover Gilmore, who is training with the White Sox at Mineral Wells, Texas, he feels that he has a kick coming as the flying outfielder once belonged to him and he could have had him for his club without a cent of cost.

He reported here in the spring of 1908 and made a good showing, but hurt his ankle and was released after he had declined to let Jack Hendricks place him. He was turned down in favor of Phil Nadeau and played great ball in Chicago semi-pro circles and the White Sox picked him up.

He is leading off for the No. 2 squad of the Sox at Mineral Wells and in his first practice game he electrified the old heads by pulling a fly off the fence that Harry Lord had jammed and labeled "home run." Yesterday he hit for a triple and a single and took care of six chances.

Gilmore is batting against the best of the Sox hurling squad, although none of them has cut loose with his full repertoire up to this time. In the game yesterday Walsh, Olmstead and Lange officiated and he got a couple off this celebrated trio.

Jack Hendricks tried after he had released Gilmore here to get him for his Denver team and he had him out west for a few weeks at the close of last season, but at that time he had agreed to sign with the White Sox and Hendricks had to see him go.

Hendricks appreciated the fact that Gilmore was a good ball player, while the youngster was here, but he was afraid to take a chance with a youngster and had to let him go, although he would have held him and placed him if the arrangement had suited the player.

DON'T PULL OUT THE GRAY HAIRS

NO LONGER NECESSARY, SAYS A WRITER.

"Pull out one gray hair and a dozen will take its place" is an old saying, which is, to a great extent, true, if no steps are taken to stop the cause. When gray hairs appear it is a sign that nature needs assistance. It is nature's call for help. Gray hairs, dull lifeless hair, or hair that is falling out is not necessarily a sign of advancing age, for there are thousands of elderly people with perfect heads of hair without a single streak of gray.

When gray hairs come, or when the hair seems to be lifeless or dead, some good, reliable hair-restoring treatment should be resorted to at once. Specialists say that one of the best preparations to use is the old-fashioned "sage tea," which our grand parents used. The best preparation of this kind is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a preparation of domestic sage, and sulphur, scientifically compounded with later discovered hair tonics and stimulants, the whole mixture being carefully balanced and tested by experts.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is clean and wholesome and perfectly harmless. It refreshes dry, parched hair, removes dandruff and gradually restores faded or gray hair to its natural color.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle and is recommended and sold by

The Self Balanced Pail.

You lay a stick across the table, letting one third of it project over the edge, and you undertake to hang a pail of water on it without either fastening the stick on the table or letting the pail rest on any support, and this feat the laws of gravitation will enable you literally to accomplish.

You take a pail of water and hang it by the handle upon the projecting end of the stick in such a manner that the handle may rest on it in an inclined position, with the middle of the pail within the edge of the table. That it may be fixed in this situation place another stick with one of its ends resting against the side at the bottom of the pail and its other end against the first stick, where there should be a notch to retain it. By these means the pail will remain fixed in that situation without being able to incline to either side, nor can the stick slide along the table or move along its edge without raising the center of gravity of the pail and the water it contains.

TESTED AND PROVEN

There is a Heap of Solace in Being Able to Depend Upon a Well-Earned Reputation.

For months Fort Wayne readers have seen the constant expression of praise for Doan's Kidney Pills, and read about the good work they have done in this locality. Not another remedy ever produced such convincing proof of merit.

Mrs. Mary Gerdes, 901 Archer St., Fort Wayne, Ind., says: "I was afflicted with kidney complaint for nine years and my condition was so poor that I could hardly attend to my housework. My back ached constantly and was so weak that I could not stoop. Being advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I got a box at Meyer Bros. Co.'s drug store and they proved to be just what I needed. In a few days the backache was relieved and before long I was restored to good health. I am always pleased to give Doan's Kidney Pills my endorsement." (Statement given December 4, 1908.)

CONFIRMED PROOF.

On June 30, 1910, Mrs. Gerdes said: "Since I publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills, I have had little or no trouble from my kidneys. I will always hold a high opinion of this remedy."

PAYS AS MATTER OF MERE FINANCE

Prof. Sackett on Value of City Sanitation and Beautification.

PAYS BIG DIVIDENDS

"Considered upon no higher plane than the mere basis of dollars and cents, city sanitation pays," declared Prof. R. L. Sackett, of Purdue university, in an address Wednesday evening at the rooms of the Commercial club, where P. A. Randall presided.

"Pure water and the prompt removal of waste matter from the city pays better interest than bonds and shows more beneficial returns than the best manufacturing industry," continued Professor Sackett, "because these things pay dividends to the entire population instead of merely to the fortunate ones who happen to have made financial investment. And it is to the common, average citizen—the day laborer, if you please, that this work of city sanitation brings the greatest good, for he may not be in financial position to escape the consequences of neglect in this direction as readily as is the man of wealth."

Much Interest Shown.

The gathering, held under the auspices of the Civic Improvement association, was attended by an audience sufficiently large to demonstrate marked popular interest in the movement to better sanitary conditions and take some advanced steps in civic beautification in Fort Wayne. Dr. J. N. Hurty, of the state board of health, who was also to have been one of the speakers of the evening, was unable to be present. Professor Sackett, who is a sanitary engineer of wide reputation, did not attempt to particularize in recommendations regarding Fort Wayne. He confined his efforts to a showing of what some other cities have done in the way of civic beautification and sewage disposal, but made it evident that he believed a septic filteration system is the correct method for cities to adopt with reference to the sewerage problem in order that the streams may be purified and their surroundings beautified.

Urges Women to Help.

At the very outset of his address Professor Sackett asked the men to delegate their wives, sisters and daughters a portion of power to act in the movement for city sanitation and civic beautification. "It is left to woman, sometimes," said Professor Sackett, to rise to the measure of necessity. It is left to the woman to give graces to the home and the deft touch of beauty to our surroundings. Too often, also, it is left to her to insist that the alleys be cleaned, and insist that streets be properly lighted, to demand that children shall be protected from certain classes of disease which result when we neglect the problem of city sanitation." The speaker strongly urged an organization of women in the effort to make Fort Wayne more beautiful and more healthful.

Prof. Sackett expressed gratification over the fact that Fort Wayne had already passed the A-B-C of the movement, that ideals had already been formulated to which the city is striving, and declared his belief that some other cities have much to learn from Fort Wayne in this regard.

City Must Look Ahead.

He cited the fact that impure water causes disease and disease is disseminated by improper sanitation. Pure water and adequate sewerage, he declared, are matters of life and death. The city must foresee that such problems are to be taken in hand at once with a view of building for the future. He urged city beautification not only from the point of attractiveness and healthfulness, but declared it invaluable in that it fosters civic spirit and civic loyalty, for the city must be worth it to deserve the loyalty and enthusiasm of its people that help to make it still greater.

By the use of the stereopticon Prof. Sackett illustrated what has been done in American and European cities in the way of civic beautification and sewage disposal, showing views of immense plants which purify the liquids in sewerage before they are permitted to run into the streams and transform the solids into fertilizer or other non-injurious matter. In the work of beautification he urged a constant attempt at naturalness, emphasizing the point that sloping banks and grass and trees were infinitely to be preferred to walls of masonry or other artificial structure along the waterways. Fort Wayne, he said, is particularly fortunate in the opportunity offered by its rivers and he urged united progress in the movement to which Fort Wayne public spirit has turned its attention.

Why He Remained Away.

"Were you sick yesterday, Mr. Bobbson?" asked the head of the firm.

"No, sir," replied the chief clerk.

"Well, I didn't notice you at your desk."

"No, sir. I didn't come downtown."

"H'm! You know the rule here, do you not? No employee is permitted to be absent without a good excuse—sickness or an accident or something of that sort. I can't permit you to take liberties that are not enjoyed by other people who work in this establishment. I never am absent myself unless there is a very good reason. Did you stay away for pleasure or on some other account?"

"I shall tell you the truth, Mr. Bud-long. It was for pleasure."

"Bad, sir—very bad. I cannot permit it."

"But let me explain. You see, my wife was so hoarse that she couldn't talk, and I thought I'd like to spend the day at home."

"Oh, in that case, my boy, it's all right. Pardon me if I seemed to be arbitrary."—Chicago Record-Herald.

REPRESENT 431 YEARS SERVICE

Eight Pennsylvania Engineers Who Have Half-Century Records.

PAID RESPECTS TO SUPERINTENDENT

Plymouth Contractor Complains of Overcharges by Lake Shore.

Four hundred and thirty-one years' service in the cab were represented in eight men who called at the office of Supt. W. M. Wardrop, of the Pennsylvania, this morning to pay their respects to that gentleman. The callers are engineers, all but two on the pension list and those two will pass to that department within the next two years. The gathering was an impromptu affair and a surprise to Superintendent Wardrop, but he was equal to the emergency and met the old throttle manipulators with a hospitality that immediately dispelled any embarrassment that may have existed in their minds and convinced them that he appreciated and approved of the motive which prompted the visit. Mr. Wardrop had a surprise for the engineers, also, and took advantage of the occasion to spring it. When the employes' annual pass question came up about two years ago, through some misunderstanding the wives of the pensioned engineers were not included in the concession and when Superintendent Wardrop learned of this little omission he had it corrected. The passes were made out last night and were to be distributed this morning, but the pensioners knew nothing of it. They were, therefore, surprised when Mr. Wardrop assorted the little pasteboards which gave to their wives free transportation over the line and handed each man one.

The names of the veterans in this party and the date of beginning of service with the company are as follows: A. J. Keplinger, 1854; David Baldy, 1855; William Glenn, 1855; Anthony Kelker, 1849; Samuel S. Kelker, 1852; Thomas Dyer, 1865; James Southern, 1859, and C. Rehling, 1863. There are three other pensioned engineers on the Western division, but they were not in the party. They are Kirby Jackson, P. H. Keegan and Theodore Titus, each of whom began work on the road over fifty years ago.

TALKED ON EXPLOSIVES.

Special Agent Taylor Had a Good Audience.

All of the Fort Wayne steam and electric railways were well represented at the assembly room in the court house last night when Special Agent Taylor, of the bureau of explosives, arose to deliver a lecture on "How to Handle Explosives." The bureau of explosives is a creation of the American Railway association and its mission is of an educational character—educating freight handlers and trainmen in the character and handling of explosive and inflammable freight—with a view of eliminating from the work of these men as far as possible the danger of explosions. Colonel Taylor spoke of the growing demand for explosives and the consequent increase in the handling of them on steam and electric cars and he emphasized the necessity for greater information among shippers and freight handlers concerning them. In conclusion Colonel Taylor said: "The American Railway association was appealed to to offer better and safer means for the shipment and has brought about wonderful results in securing a much better order of things. I am glad that so many railroad men from this city—a city of railroad importance—have taken the interest in the subject, of which the more knowledge they attain the more efficient they will become in handling explosives."

At the meeting last night was F. B. McIlvain, local inspector of high explosives for the government, who happened here yesterday on his regular inspection trip.

MORE AUTOMATIC SIGNALS.

Pennsylvania Will Open Thirteen Mile Stretch Monday.

Next Monday the Union Switch and Signal company will turn over to the Pennsylvania another stretch of automatic signal protected track. This stretch will be between Selby and Bourbon, a distance of thirteen miles and when it is in operation it will leave only forty-two miles of track between this city and Chicago that is not provided with automatic signals. Some time next week the stretch between Dixon and Adams will be added to the automatic signal system east of Fort Wayne, leaving only a five mile gap between Fort Wayne and Pittsburg. The entire automatic signal system will be in operation some time in April.

CONVENTION RATES.

Eastern Roads Will Make Them Coming Summer.

News from Chicago is to the effect that eastern railroads will make special convention rates this year—a concession to the traveling public that was determined several months ago. Under the new regulations summer tourist fares from Chicago and St. Louis to Atlantic coast points will be made on the basis of a fare and one-half for the round trip, instead of a fare and one-third, plus $1.50, which has prevailed during the past two years. It is also said that a dollar will be added to the special Niagara Falls excursion rates this year, but otherwise the conditions remain unchanged.

HIS FIRST HAIR CUT.

Sylvester McMahon, one of the old passenger conductors on the Pennsylvania, was interested in the story published in The Sentinel a few days ago concerning old barbers. Conductor McMahon, who lived with his parents in a farm in Eel River township, says the first hair cut he ever had in a barber shop was in the establishment of Barber Willis, which was in a building on ground now occupied by the Hoff Brau. That was sixty years ago, when Mr. McMahon was eight years old and when he came to town with his parents on the family shopping trip. The elder McMahon took the lad to the barber shop and it was not only his first visit to "tonsorial parlors," but it was the first time he had ever seen a colored man. Willis was a negro.

CAR BURNED AT M'COMB.

A car loaded with cotton was totally destroyed at McComb Monday night. It was in train No. 50, on the Nickel Plate, and when the efforts of the crew to extinguish the flames were unavailing, they cut it loose from other cars and allowed it to burn. The McComb fire department was out, but failed to put out the fire. The loss was considerable.

MEET IN NEW HALL.

The Carpenters' union will meet in their new hall on Calhoun street for the first time tonight. The meeting will be open to all members of the craft whether members of the union or not and some good speaking will be on the program. The union will continue the membership campaign which was carried on so successfully in December, January and February.

TOSSED BY A MOTOR.

Peter Neumeyer, of the Pennsylvania erecting shop, was injured in a peculiar manner yesterday and will be unable to work for a few days. While operating a small electric han motor the machine got the advantage of Mr. Neumeyer and whirled him around several times and threw him up against an engine, bruising and spraining his back and side.

LEFT HOSPITAL TODAY.

Conductor George W. Clark, of the Nickel Plate, left the St. Joseph hospital this afternoon and went to his home, 448 West DeWald street. Conductor Clark was severely injured two weeks ago by being thrown from a car while out on the road. He is rapidly recovering, however, and will soon be at work.

HAD THUMB SPLIT.

J. J. Lynch, a pipefitter in the Pennsylvania shops, had his left thumb split yesterday afternoon by a misdirected blow with a tool. The instrument passed through the nail and exposed the end of the bone of the digit, making a very painful wound.

TO HEAR "BILLY" SUNDAY.

Supt. W. M. Wardrop, Trainmaster J. F. Patterson and Division Engineer F. M. Graham, of the Pennsylvania, will go to Lima this evening to hear "Billy" Sunday, the evangelist, who is holding meetings in that city.

FOUR MONTHS ON COAST.

Robert W. Rehrer, Wabash switchman, resumed work this morning. For four months he was visiting friends and relatives at Los Angeles, California.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

Charles Miller resumed work in the Pennsylvania boiler shop this morning after an illness of a few days.

Conductor J. E. Cook, of the Detroit division of the Wabash, is in the Peru hospital for a surgical operation, not of a serious character, however.

Dennis Collins, Charles Brocking, William Lindemeyer, E. H. Kallmeyer and Ed Harsh, Pennsylvania shopmen, are sick and off duty.

S. J. Bacon, a pipefitter, resumed his old place in the Pennsylvania shops this morning. He was engaged three months in the work of equipping the new oil house at Conroy for the Pennsylvania.

The Bass boiler shop has completed a boiler for shipment to Rollin, Mich., and it was loaded this morning. The boiler will be accompanied by a lot of machinery from the Hanna-Brackenridge works.

The passenger association is said to have in contemplation a rule to charge excess on trunks that have an area of over forty inches. This will be a blow at the woman who takes three or four modern hats and a dozen dresses with her, for she will have to pay extra for the trunk. This rule, if it is adopted, will become effective January 1, 1912.

COMMITTEE FINDS COX IS GUILTLESS

Cincinnati Lawyers Say Did Not Commit Contempt of Court.

A MINORITY OPINION

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 9.—George B. Cox, indicted republican leader of this city, was held today not to be in contempt of court by two members of the committee of three attorneys appointed by Judge Gorman, of the common pleas court, to investigate a statement purporting to have been made by him in a morning newspaper reflecting on the grand jury, which indicted him. The other member of the committee filed a minority report in which it was held that Cox was in contempt.

One of the main points of the majority report, that of late the opinion has become general that an act cannot be held punishable as contempt unless it is committed in the immediate presence of the court, or so near that it might obstruct justice. Otherwise the person making the comment is answerable only to the public, says the report.

The majority report was signed by Edward Barton, general counsel for the Baltimore and Ohio Southeastern railroad, and Clyde Johnson. Aaron A. Ferris reported that there was contempt. The three attorneys were named by Judge Gorman.

Paris, March 9.—Three men describing themselves as Italian noblemen were arrested today charged with having swindled Levi Hart, a young American, out of $52,000. The prisoners gave the names of Borelli, Carminatti and Bordeni and are alleged to be wanted by the police of Italy.

According to Hart, he met the strangers at his hotel in the Place de L'Etoile and was introduced by them at various gambling clubs. During the visits to these places he says that the men by the use of marked cards and other devices robbed him of his entire fortune.

TRAILED BY HIS DAUGHTER.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 9.—Trailed by his 17-year-old daughter, Isabelle, who mounted a bicycle she found at the curb, Henry Demar, negro, was arrested today, just a few moments after he had shot and killed his wife at their home here, and was trying to escape from the neighborhood. The shooting is said to have resulted from an attempted attack on his oldest daughter, Bertha.

Demar, pursued by the daughter, hurried to a street car still carrying his revolver in his hand. Patrolman James, in plain clothes, was on the car and as the negro climbed the steps, confronted him with his revolver. The negro made no effort to use his weapon.

J. J. Haas, a boilermaker at the Pennsylvania shops, had his left ankle badly sprained and contused by a pedestal cap falling on it this morning.

GEORGE B. McCLELLAN

Princeton university is very little nearer the selection of a president to succeed Governor Woodrow Wilson than when he retired on October 30 last, according to M. Taylor Pyne, '77, one of the most influential members of the board of trustees. Both factions that grew up and opposed each other in the administration of Dr. Wilson are now strong enough to oppose the selection of any man who was allied with the other during the bitter controversy over the graduate college. It is believed that this eliminates from consideration men in the faculty.

Leaving the campus, it is believed that the committee will look first for a Princeton man to take the place. Among those who have been mentioned are Henry Fairfield Osborn, '77, a promising professor of Columbia university, an active alumnus and former Princeton professor; George B. McClellan, Harry Garfield, president of Williams college, who was popular as a professor of politics here a few years ago, and was a brother of James R. Garfield.

Other college presidents have been talked of for the place, among them John H. Finley, formerly of the Princton faculty, and Benjamin Ide Wheeler.

MARION MAY NOT RECALL SALOONS

Commissioners Hold "Wet" Majority to Have Been Fraudulent.

ISSUE NO LICENSES

Marion, Ind., March 9.—Marion will remain "dry," though the returns from the local option election held on Feb. 28 apparently showed a "wet" majority of thirty-five. The Grant county commissioners, after hearing evidence of alleged fraudulent voting yesterday afternoon, made a finding to the effect that a majority of the legal votes cast in this city was against the sale of liquor as a beverage.

The decision of the commissioners came as a surprise to the "wets" and created a big sensation throughout the city. Local newspapers printed extra editions that sold by hundreds and newspaper offices received scores of telephone inquiries. The interest created in the decision of the commissioners was almost as great as that manifested in the result on the night of the election.

Comes as Bombshell.

The decision of the commissioners came as a bombshell in the camp of the "wets," being made, as it was, on the same day that thirteen men gave notice in local newspapers of their intentions of applying next month for licenses for saloons in Marion. The decision makes it certain that no licenses will be issued at the April term of their meeting.

In making their decision against the "wets" the commissioners were acting upon a petition supported by an affidavit that had been filed by citizens. Among those signing the petitions were J. B. McGuffin and Clark Mills, both former sheriffs, one of whom is a democrat and the other a republican, and Frank Mackey, Sol Carter and R. L. Smith.

They alleged in their petition that sixty-five illegal votes had been cast in the Johnstown precinct of the Second ward.

Charles Spires and Robert Julius, who were "dry" members of the election board in this precinct, testified that at least sixty-five men voted who were not entitled to vote, that there was evidence to indicate that these alleged illegal votes were cast for the "wets" and that persons who swore them in after they had been challenged were "wets," including George Patterson and Henry Hornaday, former saloonkeepers.

Changed Election Result.

The vote in the precinct apparently showed 299 "wet" votes to 113 cast for the "drys." The "drys," however, alleged that enough illegal votes were cast in this precinct to change the result in the city, and they are now sustained in their contention by the decision of the commissioners.

A heavy vote was cast at the local option election, there being 869 more votes cast than at the last city election, and the "drys" charge that this was largely caused by illegal voting. The "wets" were not represented at the meeting of the commissioners, and the announcement of the decision came as a great surprise.

It is anticipated that the "wets" will appeal from the decision of the commissioners. The finding, declaring that a majority of the legal votes cast in the city was for the "drys," will make it necessary for the "wets" to offer proof to the contrary. It is probable that a legal battle will now be waged that will occupy the attention of the courts for a long time, and it seems certain that no saloons will be opened in Marion next month as had been expected.

Grand Jury May Act.

The grand jury has been called to meet on March 27 and it is reported that the "drys" are planning to offer evidence of alleged illegal voting. It is asserted that the calling of the grand jury was made at the request of persons representing the "dry" organization and that they will seek the indictment of several alleged illegal voters.

Clark Mills, who was chairman of the "dry" organization in Marion indicated today that the "drys" are not yet through with their campaign. He would not make a direct statement, but intimated that the grand jury had been called at the request of persons interested in the fight against the saloon and that evidence would be submitted that would insure the returning of indictments against persons who are alleged to have cast illegal votes.

"The decision of the commissioners is a rebuke to fraudulent voting," said Mr. Mills. "We have made our showing, the commissioners have made a finding in our favor, and it is now up to the 'wets' if they should appeal to show that a majority of the legal votes cast were favorable to them. The burden of proof now falls on the 'wets.' It is my opinion that the 'wets' will experience difficulty when they attempt to find residences for some of the men they voted.

Anticipate Poll Frauds.

"Before the election we anticipated that the 'wets' would attempt to pad the vote in the Johnstown precincts and for this reason we took three polls of the precinct. The most careful poll showed that 332 voters reside in the precinct. The total vote cast, however, was 412. We challenged many voters whom our challenger alleged to be non-residents of the precinct, and the 'wets' swore in more than sixty persons who were not on our poll books."

The voting place of the Johnstown precinct is in the court house. A majority of the voters are colored, residing in a section of the city near the public square that is known as "Johnstown" because of having been flooded a few years ago by the breaking of the river levee.

Of the persons who yesterday gave notice of their intention of applying for licenses, ten are former saloon keepers. It is known that several more were planning to give notice of their desire to obtain liquor licenses, but it is thought they will now wait until the new question is decided. Those who announced their intention of applying for licenses were Frank Brosier, Charles F. Morris, Thomas Prendeville, Roger Kiley, Bert Matlock, Joseph Mallaney, Fred Davis, John A. Sullivan, Ed J. Mahaffey, Al Hornaday, Hank Anderson, Harry Hudson and Israel Barris.

Easy Way to Improve Your Complexion

(From Philadelphia Press.)

In an address before the convention of "Beauty Specialists" here today, Mrs. Mae Martyn, the noted authority on beauty culture, spoke of a new and simple method of quickly beautifying complexions. She demonstrated before the large audience a lotion made from 4 ounces spurmax dissolved in ½ pint hot water with 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine added. She applied this lotion gently to the face, neck and arms of a decidedly unattractive young woman. In a few moments all trace of a shiny, sallow, muddy skin was gone and the transformation to that of a really charming, velvety complexion was marvelous.

After much excitement and intense interest Mrs. Martyn said: "Any druggist can supply the ingredients for this lotion at a small cost. It does not rub off or show like powder and is an unequalled aid to beauty."

"How do things look politically in Ohio, doctor?" asked the president.

"Fine!" said the doctor, with great enthusiasm.

"I doubt that," commented Gus Karger, a newspaper correspondent who knows all about Ohio politics.

"No reason to doubt," objected the divine. "Why, I've made ninety-four speeches in this state myself, and, if it goes democratic, I'll be ashamed to stay in the United States."

That night, when it became known that Ohio had gone over to the democrats by a tremendous majority, Karger was still in Cincinnati, and the president and Doctor Hill were on a train speeding eastward.

This is the telegram Karger sent the president:

"Ohio has gone democratic. Put Hill off the train."

DOCTOR HILL—THE EXILE.

(Popular Magazine.)

Dr. John Wesley Hill, the New York divine, is almost as much interested in politics as he is in religion, and he is a great friend of President Taft. On last election day, when Mr. Taft went to Cincinnati to vote, he met Doctor Hill in the railroad station.

SKYSCRAPER LIFT

Tragedy of the Elevator's Ups and Downs.

SOME ADVICE BY SAMMIS.

Don't Correct a Caller's Grammar. 'Ware the Angel—Don't Be Gay With the Boss—Don't Monkey With Wall Street Tips.

By M. QUAD.

[Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.]

YOU can make a lawyer or doctor out of most any sort of boy, but when it comes down to an elevator boy that's different.

He must be born for the place and keep on growing better every day until he retires to a chicken farm on a competence.

It is easy enough to scoot an elevator up and down, stopping at the different floors. That's simply muscular action. That will take any boy along for four weeks, and then, unless he has got the stuff in his head, he must go.

I made my first mistake by correcting a broker's grammer, but it was my first and only one in that direction. Old Brown was a speculator who had an office on the tenth floor. One day a broker blew in and inquired of me:

"Bub, has old Brown went up yet?"

"Old Brown has gone up, sir," I replied, with a great deal of emphasis on the gone.

That broker was worth a million dollars, and the idea of a poor but respectable boy correcting his speech made him boil over. He went straight to the agent and had me laid off for a month. The first trip he took in my cage after I came back he said to me:

"I have teached you a lesson, sonny, and I hope you will profit by it."

I made no reply. I had learned my lesson. Grammar is all right in Sunday school or at a moving picture show, but there's no call for it around a skyscraper. Any old language will do.

I didn't regard the engineer of a skyscraper as muchy much, and I made another mistake there. I hadn't held my place long when he insisted that I spend the noon hour playing poker with him. I refused, and within twenty-four hours I was sent for by the agent of the building, who said:

"Sammis, we have got to keep the engineer from being lonely or he'll quit the job."

"I'll get a jewsharp for him, sir."

"You'll have to do better than that. You'll have to play poker with him or go. We can't have him sticking your cage between floors a dozen times a day."

And so I went down every noon for an hour and let that engineer stick me at penny ante. Sometimes he won as much as 50 cents. When I had a full house he had a way of making a straight beat it. I had almost come to the conclusion that I was not born for an elevator boy when the engineer dropped dead of heart disease before me. I had held a royal flush to his pair of nines and beaten him out of 2 cents, and it was too much for his gentle spirit.

"Knocks" the Wrong Tenant.

I thought I was doing my duty when I went to the agent and told him that all signs indicated that the terra cotta man on the eighth floor was going to sneak out without squaring up his rent. The agent turned on me in a ferocious way and shouted:

"Sammis, who's running this skyscraper?"

"You are."

"Then keep your paws off or skate!"

Later on I found out that the terra cotta man, who owed three months' rent, was the agent's brother-in-law and that the lost rent was charged up to "repairs." Around a skyscraper you never know who is who and who he is related to.

Many and many an elevator boy who promised well at the start has blasted his career by falling in love with a typist and stenographer. There is no one to warn him of his danger. His mother at home fondly imagines that no female under fifty years old is employed around a skyscraper, and the car starter thinks it's fun to see a poor boy lose his heart and his job at the same time. The boy is paying strict attention to business when along comes a human angel. She's a blond. She has curly hair. She has a charming way of twisting her mouth as she talks. She calls him "Charlie" and begins a flirtation that lures him to his doom. After the thing has gone on for about three weeks some old dozer of a tenant with a heart of stone goes to the agent and says:

"Rasher, I'm going to leave this coop."

"Why, what's wrong?"

"It makes me tired."

"But tell me what?"

"That cub of a boy and that dolly of a girl! I can't stand it no longer. I thought this was a place of business, but I find it a nursery for calf love."

Then to keep the old coon from moving out the poor boy gets the bounce, and curly head giggles over it and lays for the next.

In Wrong With the Owner.

I nearly ruined my career by getting the idea that the owner of the building was a gent who wanted to know all his employees personally. He came down now and then, but always took some other elevator. I thought this was because we had not been introduced, and I put on my Sunday clothes one evening and called at the house. Need I describe the tragedy that followed when I introduced myself and offered to shake hands to show there was no hard feelings on my part? Several landscape painters have told me that they would have given much to have been there and caught the local coloring.

Many elevator boys start in with the idea that they must entertain their guests as they ride up and down. This is a sad mistake to make, especially if you try to be funny. I once tried to entertain the president of a railroad company by asking him that old gag, "Why does a hen cross the street?" He had no sooner recovered consciousness than he went to the agent and said I had tried to assassinate him, and I got a layoff for it. I once knew an elevator boy who thought it very funny to call the old women "Sis." He got along all right with a dozen of 'em, but the thirteenth put his eye out with the point of her parasol. No one eyed boy can run an elevator. He must get a place in an insurance office. They need only one eye there to sock the premiums on to you.

For the first year I was on an elevator I was excited about politics and telling what I thought about candidates. Then I happened to tell a candidate whom I didn't know by sight what the tenants of the building were saying about him, and when he got through cuffing and spanking me I had to go home for two days.

Waterloo in Wall Street.

There were many brokers in our skyscraper. I tried to get their good will so as to get tips. I even bought tickets to vaudeville shows and tried to pass them around. At last I got what I longed for. A broker winked at me to step out of the cage at his floor and whispered to me:

"Sammis, it's a sure thing! Don't give it away!"

"Never, sir."

"Buy Silver Crown at 15 for a raise!"

"Thanks, sir."

I had saved up $50, and I bought Silver Crown. I hadn't the least doubt that it would go to 30 inside of a week. It went down to 5 instead. The next time the broker took my car I looked at him reproachfully, and he smilingly explained:

"Now buy Silver Crown at 5 for a fall and then you'll bit it both ways."

I never touched Wall street after that. I took options on the huckleberry crop instead.

SAMMIS,
The Elevator Boy.

May Be So.

"Sharp, the grocer, has retired from business at last. Took him a long time to make his pile, seems to me."

"Yes. Made it by the short weigh too."—Browning's Magazine.

A Dangerous Habit.

"No, ma'am," said Weary Watkins, "I am not an optimist. I am merely a philosopher. When fate shows an inclination to hand me something unpleasant I'm not at home. And I suppose I have avoided any number of industrial accidents by sternly avoiding a habit that has long been the bane of toiling generations."

"What habit is that?" inquired the farmer's wife. "Drink?"

"No, ma'am; work!"

He gained the highway safely, but the dog was a close second.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

BRITISH HIGH OFFICIALS SITTING ON CORONATION QUESTIONS

The court of claims, constituted according to ancient custom, has held several sittings and has decided, for and against several persons who assert the right to perform services at the coronation of British sovereigns. Its members have, of course, been bound by precedent, and those who have failed to establish privileges have in most cases only that fact to thank. There has been about the proceedings an echo of the past well in keeping with the ceremony of which they are a preliminary. In the photograph (on the right) are the Duke of Norfolk, Earl Marshal, Lord Ashbourne, Lord Alverstone, the lord chief justice, and Sir H. H. PEACE IN A TOWN OCCUPIED IN TURN BY ROMANS, MOORS, AND SPANIARDS: WAITING FOR THE MILK FRESH FROM THE GOAT IN RONDA!

Mrs. Housewife, Don't Miss This

Our chefs have perfected a recipe for making a wondrous spaghetti.

There are 17 ingredients used in it, each the finest of its kind.

The flavor is matchless. You have never tasted a spaghetti dish which begins to compare with this.

The recipe is secret. Our kitchens alone can prepare it.

But we supply it to you ready cooked for less than you would spend to make it if we told you how.

We use to make it:

Durum wheat spaghetti.
Herkimer County full cream cheese.
Best creamery butter.
The same superlative tomato sauce we use in Van Camp's Pork and Beans.

Everything in it is the best money can buy. And our famous chefs do the compiling.

You have simply to heat it and it's ready to serve.

This is the most popular dish that we ever created. We had no idea how many people wanted such spaghetti.

When you serve it first everyone at your table will say something nice about it. When you serve it to guests—to women guests—they'll ask for the recipe.

Your grocer has it in stock or can get it. Ask him to send a few cans.

GETS AFTER LAKE SHORE.

Contractor O'Keefe Appeals to Railroad Commission.

William O'Keefe, contractor of Plymouth, having a stone contract at Notre Dame university, filed two petitions with the railroad commission yesterday, asking that the commission regulate freight charges on the Lake Shore and Michigan Central and the New York Central railroads. The petition sets out that the Lake Shore line charges 90 cents a ton for hauling crushed stone from South Bend to a siding, a distance of two and one-half miles, while for the same haul the New York Central charges 40 cents a ton. Both roads also add a switching charge of $5 a car. The petitioner relates that the same stone is hauled from Kankakee, Ill., a distance of 105 miles, for 65 cents a ton. He asks the commission to limit the charge of both roads to $5 for switching. He alleges that the siding on which his cars set is within the switching radius of South Bend.

HAY TAKES LEAD IN THE MARKETS

Much of it is Coming Into City—Very Little Grain Arriving.

THE PRODUCE MARKET

Increased activity was noticed in the local markets today, although the bright skies and warmer weather failed to bring many farmers to the city, but prices were practically unchanged, especially on country produce. Eggs remained firm in the retail trade at 16@18c and butter of a good quality at prices that ranged between 20c and 25c a pound, and the supply was fully equal to the demand.

The grain sales on the local market are few, very little coming to the city. At the city scales yesterday there were only eight loads of oats and six of corn. The prices were 30@32c for oats and 40@45c for corn. Very little wheat came in, the price remaining at 86c. Hay took the lead in receipts. Sixteen loads passed over the city scales yesterday and much came in today. The price was $13.00@18.00 ton.

Hogs Took a Drop.

Hogs took another drop in price today, going down 10c all around. The top quotation Wednesday was $7. Today it is $6.90, the prices on the other grades being $6.70 for 125 to 140 lbs., and $6.55 for the 225 to 300 lb. grades. This is the lowest point they have reached for months. The Lenten season may be the partial cause of this decrease and yet the packing houses report a continuance of good trade in meats.

The fish market is active. The sales of local dealers are large and the prices are somewhat lower than they were a week ago.

THE MARKETS

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago Market.

Chicago, Ill., March 9.—Decided weakness in the wheat market today resulted from the government showing that farm reserves were larger than had been generally expected. In addition Liverpool reported that both shipments and offerings from the Argentine republic were more liberal than had been looked for. Bearish feeling here increased because of fine weather, and on account of the fact that a majority of advices from the southwest indicate excellent crop conditions. The opening was ½c to ¾c lower. May started at 90c to 90¼@90¾c, the same change from last night as the market taken altogether, but steadied at 90¾@90½c.

Corn turned strong in consequence of purchases by leading bulls. The government figures were construed as favorable to the buying side. May opened ¼@⅜c down to a shade up, at 48⅝c to 48¾c and rose to 49½c.

Shorts were busy covering oats. Offerings were scant. May started unchanged to ¼c off at 30½c to 30⅝c and then advanced to 30½c.

With hogs lower and the week's packing much heavier than a year ago provisions dropped. First sales were the same as last night to 7½c down with May ribs at $9.37½. There was practically no business in pork or lard.

STOCKS AND BONDS.

The Day on Wall Street.

New York, March 9.—The stock market opened strong and moderately today. The Gould issues were especially strong, Wabash preferred advancing 1½, the common ¾ and Missouri Pacific ¼. United States Steel and Reading gained ½ point each and Union Pacific ⅝.

Opening prices were the best of the first hour, and the market receded slightly on better distribution of selling orders. Atchison sagged to ½ below yesterday's close, and St. Paul, New York Central, Missouri Pacific and Southern Pacific a fraction. The tone was better at 11 o'clock.

Trading was without a guiding motive in the stock market this morning and after a slight advance prices drifted back to about yesterday's last quotations. The Mexican situation was not a factor, assurances from various quarters serving to check any apprehension, and Mexican stocks showed no further weakness. Reduction of the Bank of England rate had been discounted in the London market and had no eect there or in New York. The bond market was firm with considerable activity and strength in Wabash fours.

There was a slight improvement in prices during the noon hour, in which Union Pacific extended its rise to a point. The advance was halted, however, when Missouri Pacific was sold down from 56 to below 55.

The market closed slightly more active and steady. Trading during the last hour was even duller than at any other period of the session. Prices shaded a trifle with increased weakness in Missouri Pacific, which fell to the lowest price of the day. Pennsylvania, Lehigh Valley, American Agricultural-Chemical and the Interborough-Metropolitan stocks also showed distinct heaviness.

ELECTION IS PROTESTED.

Kokomo Man Files Notice of Contest on Behalf of "Drys."

Kokomo, Ind., March 9.—Notice of contest was filed yesterday afternoon before the board of county commissioners, impeaching the legality of the option election held in Kokomo Feb. 28, the declared result of which was to return saloons in Kokomo after an exclusion of two years by a vote of 44 majority. Gilbert D. Jay, manufacturer, investor and former member of the city police board, who signed the protest, sets forth that votes were cast by men who live outside of Kokomo and by other voters who had not resided the statutory period of time in the state, county and precinct where they cast their ballots. It is also asserted by Mr. Jay that many of the ballots bore distinguishing marks, and voters were bribed. The commissioners set Thursday, March 16, as the date for hearing the contest.
